Terrific Impact

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—Three men were killed instantly and a street car motorman was slightly injured today when an automobile in which the men were riding was crushed between two street cars in West Liberty avenue near the Dormont borough line.

The dead: Oscar D. Sprows, 20; Elmer Secen, 22, and Joseph Ruzbason, 27. All the victims were said to be from Washington, Pa.

William Oswald, 35, motorman of one of the cars, suffered cuts about the head and hands when windows of his car were broken by the impact.

Splintered Mass
Witnesses said the automobile was speeding down West Liberty avenue and that the driver attempted to swerve around an inbound Mt. Lebanon trolley on the left hand side.

Motorman Oswald, piloting an outbound trolley, jammed on his brakes but was unable to bring his car to a stop before the automobile, darting between the two cars, was crushed into a splintered mass.

Both trolleys were derailed by the crash. Passengers in the cars extricated themselves and attempted to rescue the men in the automobile.

Two of the dead were found in the wreckage of the machine while the third body was found under one of the cars. Death had been instantaneous in each case, physicians said.

PA NEW OBSERVES

The 1930 Christmas tuberculosis seals that will be distributed everywhere in United States directly after Thanksgiving Day, are quite attractive in appearance. Each stamp illustrates Santa Claus carrying a Christmas tree over his shoulder and the inscription at the bottom of the stamp is "Health to All."

This is the first day of National Education Week.

Many of the local stores will be closed tomorrow in observance of Armistice Day. Library will be closed, banks and some offices. So you had better conduct any business today instead of postponing it until tomorrow.

Poor hunting this year, Pa. News was told the other day by Howard McLeure of the East Side, and hunters so far haven't got much reward for their long tramps. Seems that rabbits are getting foxy.

Armistice Day Reflections By New Castle Citizens

Armistice Day should be a day on which each community takes stock of what it has done to carry the "War to End War" to ultimate victory, of what it has contributed to the greatest struggle for freedom that men have ever waged, the struggle for freedom from war.

With this idea in mind, members of the Department of International Relations, of the Woman's Club of this city, with Mrs. William L. Cosel, as chairman, have secured interviews with leading citizens of New Castle giving Armistice Day expressions. They are as follows:

My idea of the significance of Armistice Day is:

The day on which the greatest and most cruel war came to an end and which should be a reminder that wars are useless and should be prevented.

WILLIAM H. GILLESPIE, Mayor.
Armistice Day is coming to mean to the World War veteran what Memorial Day has long meant to the Civil War veteran.

Somewhat indifferent shortly after the war, regarding parades and outward demonstrations, the average veteran now considers Armistice Day as a day for revering the memories of those "buddies" who didn't come back.

GEORGE L. SMITH, 125 Infantry, 32nd Division. Awarded Distinguished Service Cross

Armistice Day kindles anew the sorrow that is in my heart. May the sacrifices of the nation's mothers not have been in vain!

MELLA SMITH, MRS. D. R. SMITH, Gold Star Mothers.

Significance of Armistice Day: To keep alive the spirit of joy in freedom from war; effort toward permanent peace; reverence for our soldier dead and the ideals for which they fought; loving care for the maimed.

ROSE M. NOTHDURFT, (Mrs. John G.) Woman in the home.

Armistice Day is the day for genuine thanksgiving. It restored peace and tranquility and established the United States first among nations.

J. A. FLETCHER, 439th Aerial Squadron. For whom the war is not yet ended

It was a miracle of military skill and diplomacy and determination to end the World War at precisely the right moment, namely: 11 o'clock on the morning of November 11, 1918.

Schoolhouse Is Wrecked By Bomb

Officials Believe Schoolhouse Near Greensburg Was Dynamited

(International News Service)
GREENSBURG, Pa., Nov. 10.—Investigators today advanced the theory that the explosion which wrecked an eight room two-story frame schoolhouse at Salina, near here, was caused by a dynamite bomb.

The first floor of the building was splintered by the force of the blast, and desks on the second floor were torn from their fastenings. Every window in the building was broken. Because the lower floor of the building suffered the most damage from the blast, authorities believed the explosion had occurred in the basement of the building.

Damage to the building and its furnishings will amount to several thousand dollars, authorities said.

They are to report to Sergeant J. W. Thompson, officer in charge of the recruiting service of the army in this city.

It seems like a dream though it's twelve years back, and the times have advanced since then, and the lads who wore khaki are differently dressed, for now they're civilian men. But on days like these all the years roll back, and the soldier spirit displayed for they're back on the day that preceded the day when the armistice was made. And each year that passes but brightens a bit the memory of trench and camp, those holes they had near the German lines, dismal and chilly and damp. They're a long ways off from those front line days, glad that they're still alive, but the memory lingers as years roll on, the weather is fifty five.

Hold New Castle Man In Alleged Extortion Plot

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—Michael Massaro, 26, of New Castle was held in jail today for a hearing tomorrow in connection with an alleged attempt to extort $500 from a wealthy Squirrel Hill resident.

City detectives arrested Massaro loitering near the telephone booth of the Pittsburgh post office at the spot where Thomas Walsh, the victim, was instructed to leave the money.

Massaro denied all knowledge of the plot when arrested. Police reported finding numerous newspaper clippings regarding various confidence games in his pockets. Walsh received a threatening letter demanding $500 several days ago. He was instructed to leave the money in a telephone booth near a certain entrance to the postoffice building.

City detectives William Bauer, John Strader, Edward Dunn, and Joseph McBoile hid themselves in the building to await the appearance of the letter writer.

When Massaro sat down within a few feet of the booth they arrested him. Police said he did not enter the compartment.

The suspect was to have been arraigned in police court today. The hearing was postponed until tomorrow because the four detectives who were to testify were witnesses in another case in Federal court.

Will Propose Increase For Postal Rates

(Washington, Nov. 10.—The Post Office Department intends to recommend to congress next month an increase in the rate on first class mail matter from two cents to 2½ cents per ounce, Frederic A. Tilton, third assistant postmaster general, told the Association of National Advertisers today.

"Only through increasing the rates on first class matter can the revenues and expenses be balanced and the only so long as congress cuts the garment to the measure of the cloth," he said.

Tilton said the postal deficit has been variously stated at $91,000,000, $8,000,000, and $58,000,000. The first figure represents the treasury department figure, the second the general accounting office figure, and the third is the post office department.

"These are all reconciled in fact for the first two differ because of the different bases of the book-keeping, while the last two differ by reason of certain credits which the post office department takes due to a recent act whereby certain non-postal expenditures are eliminated."

School Burns Down, But Classes Resume In Temporary State

DUNBAR, Pa., Nov. 10.—Even though their two-story schoolhouse was destroyed by fire, pupils in three public school classes today got no vacation from the tolling bells and studies.

Enterprising school officials made arrangements to house one class in the basement of the local Presbyterian church.

The other two were crowded into the high school building where their studies continued uninterrupted. Fire completely destroyed the building last Friday night.

Many Coalitions Are Apparent In Coming Congress

Republicans And Democrats Will Form Coalition To Aid Business

CAPITOL HILL
IS THINKING

Democratic-Insurgent Projected Coalition Is One Most Feared

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Coalition of a sort never before witnessed in the American political system appeared inescapable today as party leaders analyzed the situation brought about by an almost equal division in the parties in last week's election.

The Democrats have offered to form a coalition with the Republicans to accelerate such legislation as will aid in the business recovery of the nation. And the Republicans, through Senator Watson, the majority leader, have formally accepted the offer. That is one coalition.

There are two other coalitions forming, however, for the 72nd Congress which are engaging more attention than the grand gesture of cooperation made by the rival leaders. One is the coalition of Democrats and Republican Insurgents, which will be all powerful whenever it is exercised, and the other is a coalition of the Conservatives of both parties as against the Liberal-Progressives of both parties.

Many Coalitions
The 72 Congress, in fact, is likely to witness more experiments with various kinds of coalition than any (Continued On Page Two)

WILL ROGERS says:

(Special To The News)
SANTA MONICA, Cal., Nov. 10.—Everybody has offered suggestions as to what is the matter with the world. I just got one to offer and then I will shut up.

It's inventors that's put us where we are today.

There ain't enough jobs to go around. Why? because every lazy man in the world has invented something to knock others out of work, and fix himself financially so he wouldn't have to.

So, Mr. Hoover, appoint a last commission and, if they hear of anyone inventing something, or even thinking of inventing something, stop 'em.

With four-fifths of the world earning their living by work, we honor men that invent things to knock 'em out of work.

Yours,

German Airplane Reaches England

Giant DO X Arrives In Calshot England From Amsterdam

SPEEDY FLIGHT
OVER CHANNEL

(International News Service)
CALSHOT, Eng., Nov. 10.—The German flying boat DO-X, carrying 21 persons, landed in the Calshot naval basis here at 3:33 p. m. (10:33 a. m. Eastern Standard time) completing her flight from Amsterdam in four hours and eight minutes.

A large crowd was on hand to see the big craft make its landing, the first time that a heavier-than-aircraft weighing more than fifty tons had landed on English waters. Police launches chugged actively up and down the sea lane kept open for the DO-X to assure sufficient space for Captain Christiansen to bring his heavy craft down safely.

The stay of the German flying boat at Calshot, which is just outside of Southampton, was not expected to be long, as Captain Christiansen already is behind his schedule on his projected flight by stages from Friedrichshafen to New York. The next leg of the flight will carry the DO-X to Bordeaux, France, and thence to Lisbon, from which port the trans-Atlantic hop, via the Azores and Bermuda, will be made.

County Red Cross Roll Call Starts

Hon. Chas. G. Jordan In Charge As Chairman Of County Effort

DRIVE WILL END
ON THANKSGIVING

Fourteenth annual Red Cross Roll Call commenced this morning and will continue until Thanksgiving Day, November 27. Workers have started in so enthusiastically and so energetically that the Lawrence County Chapter of American Red Cross believes that this roll call will surpass any before in success.

Hon. Charles G. Jordan is county chairman for the roll call drive and district chairmen have been named for most of the districts throughout the county. If the success of the drive depended entirely upon the enthusiasm being shown by these men it would undoubtedly be the biggest ever. It depends essentially upon the citizens of Lawrence county and they are urged to help. Residents of the rural districts will be solicited individually by workers, while in the city, friends of the Lawrence County Chapter will be permitted to subscribe by voluntary contributions.

In the churches, Sunday was observed as Red Cross Sunday and the pastors called to the attention of the congregations facts concerning the drive that opened this morning—telling of the work being done by the American National Red Cross.

As the coming year expects to see further increase in this good work, additional funds will be needed here. District chairmen who started in this morning with such a fine spirit and who will be in charge of the campaign in the rural districts are: Dr. Frederick A. Taylor, Pulaski; C. L. Zedaker, New Bedford; Everett McConnell, Harlansburg; Mrs. Myrtle McBride, Coaltown; Mrs. Harold (Continued On Page Two)

District Elks In Session Here Are Hosts To Nugent

State Association President Comes From Braddock Sunday Afternoon

LEADERS FROM 13 LODGES TAKE PART

With State President John F. Nugent of Braddock present as a guest, leading Elks from scattered districts in northwestern Pennsylvania, representing 13 lodges in this quarter of the state, met here Sunday afternoon in the regular monthly conference of the Northwestern District association, Benevolent Protective Order of Elks.

Frank H. Leslie of Rochester, the president of the district organization, officiated as presiding officer throughout the business session which closed with a dinner served in the dining room by the New Castle lodge.

Talk Winter Plans. Outstanding matters regarding the association's plans for the ensuing winter were discussed in full, and action on different projects was taken. Chief among the items given attention were those concerning the contemplated visit of the national grand exalted ruler next January, and the development of Boy Scout work in the lodges of the district.

The association unanimously decided to encourage as much as possible the Boy Scout undertaking and to establish troops in different lodges. Troops of the New Castle and Warren lodges, organized some time ago, were reported as functioning well. In the current number of the National Elks magazine recognition is given the local boys for their meritorious accomplishments along different lines.

Leaders Present. Prominent Elks from different cities were present besides the state association head, who was warmly received on his arrival here. Mr. Nugent spoke during the course of the meeting, outlining his plans for state-wide activity.

Other leaders who attended were District Deputy Earle MacDonald of Warren, personal representative of the national grand exalted ruler here; Past District Deputy R. C. Robinson of Wilkesburg; Past District Deputy Frank J. Lyon, Past District Secretary V. A. McShane of Butler and exalted rulers of many of the district's 13 lodges.

At the request of District Deputy MacDonald, the December conference of the association will take place in his home city of Warren.

Chickens were reported stolen from two different places on Saturday night or Sunday morning. Three were taken from the William Welsh place, 709 Cayon street while ten were reported stolen from the coop of Paul Felice, 218 East Cherry street. Stevenson is said by the police to be connected up with the latter theft.

The Thursday Night Pewee club again was seated around a table playing poker. Soon Radson, one of the members, found that all of his money was gone. Turning to his particular friend at his right, he made a loan of an additional amount and stayed in the game.

Several days later the lender of the money met Radson and asked for repayment, but Radson was deaf to his pleas, and after awhile plainly told him that the loan was for gambling purposes and that he would not repay it. Whereupon the lender went to his attorney and filed suit.

of the week-end parties for this winter have been held.

The opening of East North street between East street and Neshaunock avenue, will relieve the congestion on East street. The traffic, during the re-paving of North street, on East street is very thick and the corner is quite dangerous because of the hill.

Not alone in the business district will the observer find splendidly decorated windows to infuse the festive spirit. Pa New saw some fine windows in the outlying streets, including such places as East Washington street and Ray street.

Well! Well! We're in the movies now. Pa New's family certainly did show an industrious streak while the Klieg lights were on and the cameras clicking. Of course this does not mean that they do not always show that amount of speed.

This is Red Cross Week. Be sure to enroll and carry on the work of this merciful organization.

From the pulpit of almost every church went up messages Sunday propounding international peace. Constantly a grim reminder of years long past, the Armistice occasion furnishes pastors an opportunity to preach world-wide good will, and many did yesterday.

Hunting may be not so good but four East Side hunters have no complaint coming, for they bagged quite a number of rabbits and pheasants recently, in this county.

The hunters are Alphonso Flynn, Richard Nesbit, Cecil Wooley and Clyde Badger.

New Castle spectators at the Armistice day parade on Tuesday should remember to stay on the sidewalk while watching the procession. Stay out of the cartway of the street, and remain on the sidewalk. Crowding out into the street to see a parade is small town stuff!

Pa New saw a truckload of sleds crossing the diamond this afternoon.

STUDENT IN PHYSICAL GEOGRAPHY INQUIRES

By Arthur Dev. Carpenter

S. P. THROOP, PA., would like information about discovery of life on planet Mars. The evidence supporting theory of life on Mars is this: When one of its geographic poles—north or south—becomes projected toward the sun, thus producing spring and summer, then all that area of the planet begins to display a greenish hue in harmony with the development of vegetation. Mars has oxygen in its atmosphere. The only way oxygen is known to get into a planet's atmosphere is by way of growing vegetation that exhales oxygen and absorbs carbonic acid gas. Vegetation is life. Where vegetation is, there is reason to believe there is also animal life.

reached our base, our hospitals were filled far beyond their capacity. It meant the end of the slaughter and a vision of a return to the good U. S. A., home and friends.

A few minutes after our celebration, the sound of three volleys and the clarion notes of "taps" were heard from the vicinity of the village cemetery. A French woman was heard to say "Pauvre American" (Poor American).

It seems most fitting to observe the day in honoring the memory of those who made the supreme sacrifice and others who were disabled for the cause of freedom and democracy.

MRS. MARY P. BELL,
President, Lawrence County Unit, Women's Overseas Service League.

Armistice and Dis-armament. The basic meaning of these words is identical, but in "armistice" the word for "suspending" is a suffix, an afterthought; in "dis-armament" it is a prefix, a forethought; curious, isn't it?

Afterthought, of Ephraim; curious, isn't it? The after-thinker, who opened Pandora's box, unloosed untold miseries upon humanity and regretted it ever after, whereas Prometheus, the fore-thinker, brought a gift divine to mankind.

J. B. MENKES,
Rabbi Temple Israel.

Armistice Day! What memories

it brings back after a dozen years! It seems we can still hear the shouts and prayers of the millions going up in thanks to God for deliverance from an awful war. Make it a sacred day forever!

FRED L. RENTZ,
President, News Co.

On Armistice Day the true American will thank God for the memory of peace after war; take time to ponder his debt to the American soldier; join in public tribute to the heroic dead, and ask himself how he can be to his nation in peace what others have been in war.

S. J. WILLIAMSON,
Pastor Highland U. P. Church.

Armistice Day is a worldwide holiday, marking the cessation of hostilities between nations; a long looked-for day of peace on earth and good will toward men.

It immortalizes the youth and manhood of our nation, who gave up home and even life itself, in a journey to foreign lands, to uphold the principles of American liberty.

America will never forget. May the God of nations watch over our peace and preserve it for all time.

REV. P. S. CLIFFORD,
St. Mary's Church.

The message of Armistice Day is one of peace; and its proper observance affords an opportunity for the citizens of the community to accord honor to those who have served the cause of peace by bearing arms against the forces of tyranny and oppression.

CLYDE C. GREEN,
Superintendent of Schools.

The significance of Armistice Day is not yet altogether apparent. That it will become one of our great historical days there can be no doubt. Just what it will mean to coming generations will depend upon whether it has in fact "made the world safe for democracy" and whether it ended "a war that ended wars."

JAMES A. CHAMBERS,
Judge, Lawrence County Court.

Armistice Day restored the blessings of peace to America; it brought victory and glory to American arms and brought America international power and prestige. Today one is reminded, however, of the terrible ignominy of it all—that it has taken our government so long to adequately and fully care for the disabled, the widow and the orphan who made the greatest sacrifices.

GUY J. WADLINGER,
Commander, Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343, American Legion.

What Armistice Day means to me: Armistice Day should be a day of real thanksgiving to God for the termination of the World war and the beginning of international peace. Not a day of feasting, but a day of fasting and prayer. Not a day of carousing and drunkenness, but a day of sober thinking and meditation. Thinking of peace—ways and means to bring about world peace.

Two Slayings Will Die In Ohio State Prison Chair Today

Ohio's First Double Execution In Several Years Will Take Place

(International News Service)

COLUMBUS, O., Nov. 10.—Ohio's first double electrocution in several years will take place at the state penitentiary tonight when Bert Walker, 43, of Akron and Charles Cramer, 26, of Georgetown, will die in the electric chair.

Lawyer hopes that two condemned men were last today when Governor Myers Y. Cooper refused to grant clemency in either case.

Walker is sentenced to die for the murder of patrolman Harland Maues of the Akron police department. Cramer is condemned to death for the slaying of Robert Clemens, aged Brown county farmer.

The double electrocution is scheduled shortly after 7 p. m. The two men will die within a few minutes of each other.

other congress in history. Inevitably it means the further breaking down of party lines, and greater individual independence than ever before.

The offer of the seven Democratic leaders to cooperate with the Republicans in all measures affecting the national economic recovery was accepted "with full faith and credit" by the Republicans. It does not mean, however, that the Democrats are going to swallow administration remedies whole, and without questioning their efficacy.

There are widely divergent schools of thought on Capitol Hill as to what is best calculated to bring the country back to prosperity. There is, for example, a very considerable number of Democrats and Progressive Republicans who believe that modification of the Hawley-Smoot tariff law would do a lot to bring back foreign trade lost on account of it. There are others who believe in great bond issues for public improvements, in legislation for the promotion of gigantic railroad mergers, et cetera, every proponent has his opponent, opinions clash sharply, so, in the final analysis, it is quite likely that despite the gestures being made by the party leaders the '22nd Congress will see about as much inter-party sniping as its predecessors.

Stabilize Markets.

In accepting the Democratic offer, Senator Watson observed dryly that "it was, no doubt, put forward in the hope that it would stabilize the public markets which have been falling out of unnecessary alarm since the day of election."

"Be that as it may," he continued, "we are faced with a national situation where the only patriotic solution lies in cooperative action and I welcome it and I am sure my colleagues (Republicans) will welcome it also."

Shop Products Are On Display

Work Of School Shops On Display At Administration Building

In the Administration Building of the New Castle School District there is a display of shop products that is well worth the inspection of persons interested in what the shops of the schools are doing.

The students of the Franklin Junior High shop have on display a steam engine which was constructed by them, several lathes, machined parts, candle sticks and other metal products. Looking at them without any knowledge of who made them, one is led to believe that they are from a shop manned by experts.

The fact that they are so well made is just one more indication of the work done in the shops.

In the same room is a display of work done by the wood working shops. A huge desk and several display cabinets are in use in the room and like the machine work are done with the skill of professionals.

The display room of the administration building is open to the public daily between nine a. m. and five p. m.

Youth Who Admits Escaping From George Junior Republic; Kills Cousin

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 10.—Stanley Ewald, 18, who claims to be an escaped inmate of the George Junior Republic institution at Grove City, will be turned over to the coroner late today in connection with the death of his eight-year-old cousin, George Lasic, who was fatally wounded Saturday.

Ewald and his cousin were hunting at the time. County detectives said that Ewald had told several versions of how George was wounded, one being that he pointed the gun at the Lasic lad and pulled the trigger, believing the gun to be unloaded.

Many civic organizations and service men's organizations are showing their unanimous and spontaneous help in this roll call and contributions from individuals are already flowing into the office of the local chapter.

PERMANENT REGISTRATION

With the election over and the fact shown that only about half of the citizens in New Castle who could have been eligible to vote, were registered properly to exercise that franchise, thoughts are turned toward the possibility of a different method of registration.

In Ohio what is termed a permanent registration law has gone into effect whereby it is not necessary for voters who continue to reside in the same precinct to register before every election. Their registration is good for a term of years so long as they have not changed their residence.

And why not in Pennsylvania? At least in third class cities, or the smaller units of the state?

This is a matter that the legislature would do well to look into at the next session.

In the rural districts now, there is no need for personal registration before every election. The assessors do the registering and the rural residents are eligible to vote. In the cities every voter must personally register at least once a year in order to vote.

Why isn't the new Ohio law a good thing for Pennsylvania? Why shouldn't we have permanent registration in Pennsylvania cities of the third class on the same basis?

We believe that the permanent registration of voters project is a matter that should be investigated and if feasible be provided in this state.

STRANGE WAYS OF VOTERS

Electorates move in mysterious ways their wonders to perform. That fraction of the enfranchised which has been prone to find fault with the administration at Washington has seen fit to aggravate the conditions which are responsible if the federal government has been unable to accomplish all that the people have asked of it.

From the very inauguration of his administration President Hoover has been hampered and harried by Democrats and insurgent Republicans in both chambers of congress. Partisan obstructionists have defeated or vitiated administration measures in which the public had placed greatest confidence and hope.

The unsatisfactory situation had been repeatedly and forcefully brought to the attention of the voters, who should have seen in it a clean-cut obligation to send to congress men whose faith in and loyalty to the administration program were unquestioned. Purely selfish interests from the voter's standpoint would have seen the wisdom in that.

But what did the majority do in a number of states? It sent to Washington more defeatists and trouble-makers. Instead of a counter-irritant it prescribed more irritants. At a time when the public welfare demanded constructive co-operation the voters turned to defeatists.

SOLDIERS OF PEACE

Congress has frequently considered establishing an award similar to the congressional medal of honor or distinguished service cross to be presented to government employees who through courageous or self-sacrificing service have signally benefited mankind.

There are many persons in the government service who are entitled to public recognition and gratitude. Scientists in the service have invented processes and devices by which the government saves millions of dollars yearly or renders some other public service. There are research workers whose experimentation has led to the development of entirely new industries. There are members of the public health service whose activity has resulted in the eradication of dread diseases. There are, in short, many whose services have been valuable beyond calculation in money.

Recognition of distinguished service for the government would be not only a mark of grateful appreciation, but would inspire other public servants to do great work.

Government experts whose research has resulted in important discoveries do not fare as well as those engaged in similar activity privately or in industry. The latter receive greater financial reward. The government worker turns over his inventions and discoveries to the public, and devotes his life to his task on a meager and inadequate salary.

A RELIEF

A promise has been made by Senator Fess of Ohio, which, if it is possible to keep it, will be welcomed by the country. It is, in brief, that there will be little general legislation at the session of congress beginning December 1.

There is a grave question as to the senator's ability to keep this pledge, no matter how sincere his efforts. We saw the president call congress into session a year and a half ago to do just a little—and after a year of bickering that brought about widespread disgust for its membership and its actions, it delved into many fields, upsetting business and making the people pray it might work its evil promptly and adjourn.

It has been the experience of many nations that legislative bodies are to a material extent mischief-makers. The fact they are likely at any time to embark on experiments in legislation, that it is impossible to forecast what they will or will not do, makes them a disturbing factor.

It is no secret that ordinarily business affairs proceed more smoothly when a body like congress is not in session. Then we know matters will follow the normal course, free from disturbances due to the possibility of attempts being made to juggle with our laws.

Few tears would be shed were congress not to convene next month. There is nothing of a vital nature facing it. But since, by law, it must meet, we shall hope Senator Fess is a good prophet, and that little is done. A "do-nothing" congress would be far preferable to a "do-everything" one such as we have just had.—The Schenectady Gazette.

Grouch.
"GO 'WAY from me," says the Grouch. "I don't want to talk to you—to you or to anybody, else."

"If I talk to you, I might forget I'm mad. Or if I don't forget it, I'll probably say something I oughtn't to say. I'll insult you, I'll hurt your feelings. You'll be angry at me. I'll be mad at YOU for being angry at ME. I'll drive you away, hurt, I'll know I ought to call you back and apologize, and I don't want to apologize today. I don't feel in the mood for apologizing. So I WON'T apologize and I'll feel all the worse for NOT apologizing."

"I've got a grouch. Nobody knows what a big grouch I've got. It's turning to poison in me. It's fuming and fermenting and boiling away. I'm full of gall and worm-wood and asafetida and I'M GLAD OF IT! Keep away from me! I don't want your fault, it isn't anybody's fault, and it certainly isn't MY fault. Maybe I got out on the wrong side of the bed. . . . Beds shouldn't have any sides. . . . That might stop grouches. . . . None-ense! Nothing can stop grouches. They happen."

"You eat something you shouldn't eat, and it upsets you. Or you do something you shouldn't do and you're ashamed and take it out on other people. . . . You slam doors, may be. Funny things about doors. Grouches slam them. Why do they do it? Maybe because when they were little children, the first thing they were taught was NOT to slam doors. Afterwards, when they're grown up but act like children in a temper, they rebel against manners and slam a door just to show how independent they are."

"But just the same, you needn't think I've kidded myself into being in a good humor again. I've still got my grouch. I'm still mad. I'm poison oak. I'm flypaper. I'm a stinging nettle. Don't touch me. Don't talk to me, let me alone. Put out the sun, cover up the moon, rub off the stars, find some dark and gloomy place where the bats are flying and no silly little birds are trying to be happy. . . . I'll take my grouch and be happy."

"I'll return to you tomorrow — with a sheepish, apologetic look on my face — hoping nobody notices me, hoping they've all got bad memories, hoping nobody asks me anything about my grouch. . . . But right now I'm mad. Lemme alone! Go away from me!"

That's what The Grouch said. What makes us go crazy like that?

Money Mad.
Has the accumulation of money robbed you of the fine human qualities you once possessed?

Now that you are on Easy St. have you lost all sympathy for those who have not met with equal success in the world of finance?

Do you feel that they are too inferior to be retained as friends and that they should not expect you to regard them as in former years?

On the other hand have you considered that your success or your ability to make money is not due entirely to your own shrewdness or business ability.

Fortunate breaks, investments turning out right for you, while others just as bright and as shrewd have lost on their investments.

You took a chance on something regarding which you took advice from men who were supposed to know about such things.

Your friends who lost may have dropped all, in the same circumstances.

You feel the power of money and it has hardened you to such an extent that your life is now devoted to still greater accumulation.

You learned to shut your eyes and close your heart to the sorrow you may cause others in adding to your holdings.

Are you losing the finest things in life?

Symposium of Editorial Views By Newspapers of Nations on Important Subjects as Edited by Consolidated Press Association

Lack Of Sincerity Charged In Mussolini's Defense Talk

Italian Leader Believed To Have Stirred People Of Other Nations While World Leaders Were Proclaiming Advance In Direction Of Peace.

Strong tendency to view Mussolini's belligerent talk as lacking in sincerity is shown by the American press, in view of the fact that it is based upon apparent desire to consolidate the Italian people. It is pointed out that while the dictator was accusing other nations of war tendencies, leaders of great nations were proclaiming a new advance toward peace. Nevertheless, a disturbing element is recognized.

Quoting the statement that "all things are possible," the HARTFORD TIMES states: "We cannot deny that fascism as a governmental theory may have in it something that is to spread beyond Italy and convulse people for which the existing peace is not now dreamed. The famous March to Rome may have its emulations. Yet the desire of the peoples of Europe is for peace and warfarers that are moral and constitutional rather than waged by fire and sword. Their great cries are for just dealing and comfortable livelihood amid tranquillity and good feeling. Certainly we can hope these blessings are realizable without the sanguinary developments which Mussolini imagines he foresees. If he is justified another Ezekiel cannot arise too quickly to warn of woes and desolations to come."

The Italian speech is described by the TERRE HAUTE STAR as "bombast" and that paper holds that "Duce can scarcely claim originality for this procedure." In view of the fact that "it is the favorite method of those bent on armed conquest to assume that the other side is the aggressor." The Star offers the explanation: "Recognizing the economic depression from which the boasted Fascist efficiency has failed to rescue the country, he pointed out recently that 'unforeseen and irreparable events did not occur, such as a war,' the people could look forward to a recovery. He estimated that three years would be required to attain 'relative prosperity.' Italy has been suffering from bankruptcies, unemployment, and depleted state treasury. Under such conditions it is natural for the Fascist leader to beat the tom-toms and raise the population to a state of patriotic exaltation in the effort to divert public thought from unsatisfactory domestic conditions. Such bombast is chiefly for home consumption. It demonstrates that Fascist Italy, like all the other countries, is having its troubles."

Reference to "one of the best tricks in the pack of any dictator" is made by the OAKLAND TRIBUNE which suggests that "how much of truth and how much of astute politician is in the talk is something for a world, and the future, to judge. The Tribune continues: "At the same time leading men in three great nations were talking more than half way around the world by radio. President Hoover, Prime Minister MacDonald and Premier Hamaguchi of Japan were sounding the same and constructive words for peace, pleading for the continuance of international efforts to settle arguments by arbitration and reduce armaments to a point below which aggression would be poor policy. The radio carried the hope for the future while a dictator, broadcasting in Italy, added so much more to the causes for apprehension in a situation which bolsters the wise men of Europe."

"We find this new factor of disturbance setting us all going around the old circle," suggests the MILWAUKEE JOURNAL, but the BARTSBURG JOURNAL brands "the very violence and exaggeration of his outburst" as reducing it "to the status of petty raving." The LA CROSSE TRIBUNE feels that "threats of a Mussolini may be heard with a mock enthusiasm," since "he rank and file in Italy have a common thought with the rank and file of other nations, and that thought is against armed strife." The SAN JOSE MERCURY HERALD argues that "while he may bluff, it is hardly probable he would recklessly plunge his country into bankruptcy and ruin by starting a war without money to pay the cost." The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE voices the hope that "Duce will be able to control the whirlwinds he creates and teach them to observe international boundaries."

Some attention is paid to Mussolini's reference to the question of armament, and the MINNEAPOLIS STAR says of his theories: "Being arrogant and egotistical, Mussolini is defiantly blind to its faults and blemishes. He has made Italian citizens a loyal multitude of yes men." And now he has caught the Napoleon virus and lets his cat out of the bag by predicting a fascism-blessed Europe. What does Mussolini want—another world war?

The suggestion that "the moderate German press, and especially the Socialist organs, look askance at Mussolini's policy," is made by the NEW YORK EVENING POST, with the conclusion: "They suffer from no illusion that the Duce is in any way considering Germany's interests, even those of a Fascist Germany, in talking of treaty revision. Rather they interpret his speeches as an attempt to encourage German Fascism in order to worry France still more and to make her more eager for an agreement with Italy. Once these two nations are reconciled, the German liberals give warning, Mussolini's friendship for Germany will quickly lose its ardor."

"Fortunately for Europe," declares the ASHEVILLE TIMES, "the still dominant German leaders take no stock in Duce's outwittings. And the Socialist newspaper Vorwarts warns its readers that Mussolini has no real concern for Germany's fate and that he is attempting to capitalize German radicalism for the sake of negotiating a favorable agreement with France." Admitting that "Europe always has been hypocritical," the ROCK ISLAND ARGUS states that "maybe this daring Italian has said something which ought to be said," adding that "one thing seems quite certain, and that is that Italy, Germany and Hungary will stand together in matters of European policy." The OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN avers: "Improbable as it is, it is not entirely impossible that the lads of our grammar schools may some day be marched into a maelstrom created by the dictator who is now teaching Italian to hate their neighbors and long for a war of conquest. Many an American who once laughed at the kaiser's pretensions is sleeping today on the face of Europe."

Newsprint, the paper on which the edition of the News is printed is a very important commodity. The Canadians permit combinations which seek advance the price of newsprint very materially because there is not enough timber in these United States to approach even the demand for this raw material out of which the paper is manufactured.

It is now announced by B. F. Heintzleman, of the National Forest Service that from the national forests of Alaska one-fourth of this country's newsprint paper requirements can be produced each year and that two companies now are approaching the final stages preceding commercial development of these resources.

Mr. Heintzleman, who is Assistant Regional Forester in the Alaska region, pointed out that more than half of the 4,000,000 tons of newsprint now used annually in the United States is imported, largely from Canada, but that Alaska can produce 1,000,000 tons a year without forest depletion.

"The Territory," he said, "can become a very material factor in recapturing a large part of this paper industry for the United States and in holding down any possible exorbitant demands by foreign manufacturers."

The two projected commercial developments each will involve estimated investments of $20,000,000 and include water-power rights; and the agreements, on which both the Federal Commission and the Forest Service must pass, are now up for final consideration.

The purchase of Alaska from the Russian Government was a very good business venture.

Clendening Aids Group Of Cannners

Sodium Benzoate In Small Doses Is Harmless

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

My heart would be indeed a hardened and obdurate organ if I failed to notice a letter which among many others comes to my desk. There arises from it a delicate perfume of old-world gentility.

Des Moines, Iowa.
"A group of ladies who do not care to have their names appear in the newspaper would be obliged to you if you would tell in your health column the answer to this question. We hope it is of general interest."

"Is there any harm in using a canning compound consisting of boric acid 95 per cent, salt 4.762 per cent, benzoate of soda .001 and moisture .237 at the rate of one-half teaspoonful to the pint of canned product?"

I pause to let that picture sink into my mind. It suggests odors from the kitchen door, billowing out on the sun-drenched October afternoon, and a little boy I used to know pausing to take a sniff. Things cannot be nearly as badly off in this republic as Mr. Stuart Chase and Mr. James Thurston Adams seem to fear, when there still remain groups of ladies, "who do not care to have their names appear in the paper," who are bending their thoughts upon preserves. Let the other sections note this mischievous came from the middle west.

The question raises the controversy which raged about Dr. Harvey Wiley and the Pure Food and Drug Act in President Roosevelt's administration. He contended that benzoate of soda was harmful. Few other experts agreed with him. A later commission quoted approvingly by Dr. Otto Polin of Harvard in his book, "Preservatives and Other Chemicals in Foods," said:

"Sodium benzoate in small doses (under five-tenths of a gram per day) mixed with the food is without deleterious or poisonous action and is not injurious to health."

Dr. Polin says: "Among all the preservatives of recent origin there is probably no one more likely to prove practically harmless than benzoic acid and benzoates."

Of boric acid he says, however, that it "cannot be defended as an ingredient of human food."

If you will send to the U. S. Department of Agriculture, Bureau of Home Economics, for Bulletin 1471, published in 1926, called "Canning Fruits and Vegetables at Home," written by L. Stanley, you will find the safest advice about all kinds of home food preservative methods.

I simply add a broad hint to the effect that my favorite flavor in a jam or jelly has always been quince. EDITOR'S NOTE: Four pamphlets by Doctor Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin, for each, and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are "Infant Feeding," "Reducing and Gaining," "Instructions on the Treatment of Diabetes" and "Hygiene of Women."

Community Night To Be Observed At Mt. Jackson

Armistice Day will be marked by a community gathering in the Mt. Jackson high school at 8 o'clock when P. E. Foltz, principal of the North Beaver township schools, presents a program that will be of interest to all residents in the community.

The high school orchestra, under the leadership of W. H. McCollough, will furnish the music for the occasion and as this is the first community night celebrated this season it is anticipated the auditorium of the high school will be crowded.

An historical pageant, "Bottled Liberty" will be presented by the cast from the Third United Presbyterian church of this city, which depicts episodes of American history from the time of George Washington to the present day and the events will be portrayed in the costume and settings of the time of the events. There will be thrilling arguments between General Atterbury and Thomas Edison, between Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler and Dan Poling, between Mrs. Sabin and Evangeline Booth and there will also be a session of congress of today.

There will be no admission charged to this most interesting community event and as an education in historical events it cannot be surpassed.

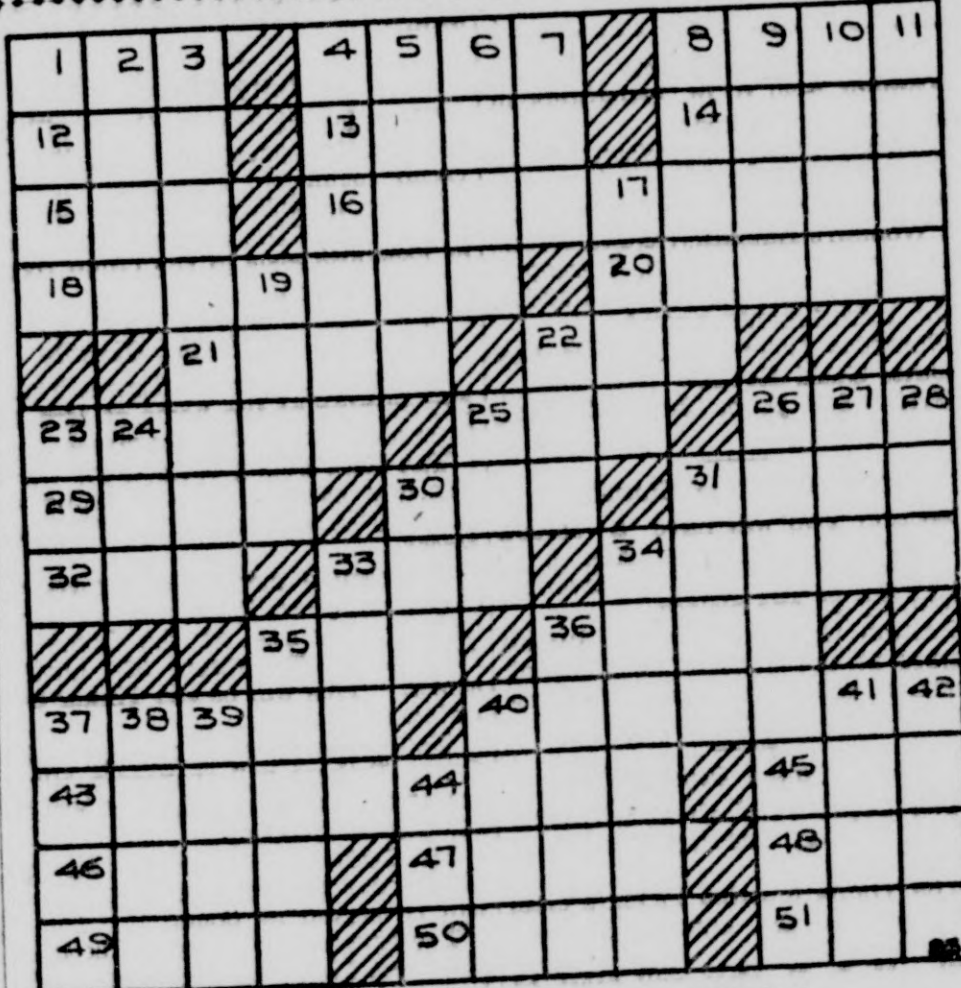

ATTENTION! Service Men

We expect every Legionnaire in line during the parade Armistice Day. Please be on hand at the Legion Home at 10 a. m. A cordial invitation is extended to all former service men to join in the celebration. Legionnaires, wear your uniforms, if you can still get into them. We would at least like to have as many of you come out wearing your overseas caps as is possible. Don't let the lack of either keep you out of the parade Armistice Day. Come anyway.

Let every Legionnaire see to it that his buddy neighbor has a special invitation to be in line and make it a point to persuade him to join in the celebration.

If we do our part in commemorating Armistice Day, we will do honor not only to those who left behind but to ourselves. GUY J. WADLINGER, Commander Perry S. Gaston Post No. 343, American Legion.

Peter's Adventures

LOYAL TO THE LAST

The Red Ants were winning! The bad news made Peter's blood run cold. But he wasn't going to let the wounded Black Ant know how scared he was. He leaned over the poor little insect, and spoke to her gently.

"I'll run back to the Ant Hills and deliver your message. Don't you worry! Busy will see that the nurses and babies get away safely. But before I go, isn't there something I can do for you?" To the boy's great surprise, the wounded Black Ant flew into a fury.

"Don't you know better than to ask a question like that?" demanded she. "Have you been even a short while among my people and failed to learn that a single ant doesn't count for anything at all when there's the whole community to be considered? My days of usefulness are over. My time has come to leave this big, bright world (the poor ant's voice sounded choked), but that is fate. Your duty to the young of Ant Hill who have not lived their lives. My duty is to let you go. Hurry, slugged! Be off. Stop bandying words with me!"

The wounded Black Ant's frantic efforts to drive the boy away from her side took all her strength. With one last feeble motion of her antennae toward the Ant Hill home she had loved so well, and to which she had proved faithful to the very end, the little warrior suddenly sighed and turned her face to the ground.

"Good-bye! What a loyal warrior you were! Now I must start where you were! Off and carry on your scout work!"

New Dial System For P. R. R. Calls

Installation Of Equipment Here
Soon To Be Commenced
At Headquarters

The Pennsylvania railroad's private branch telephone exchange at Conway, is soon to be replaced with the Bell Telephone company's most recent development of dial telephone equipment, and the company's New Castle exchange will be affected. It is expected to be placed in service early in December.

Telephones in the territory between Sewickley and Homewood junction, and connected with the new exchange. There will be dial lines to the private branch exchanges of the company at Pittsburgh and Alliance as well as New Castle, and manual tie lines to the Steubenville and Cleveland exchanges.

The purpose of the replacement, it is said is to obtain the most efficient telephone inter-communication between various departments locally as well as to those located at more distant points. When the new system is in service any employee having access to a local dial telephone will be able to dial any other local dial telephone, or dial the railroad operators here in New Castle, or at Pittsburgh and Alliance.

Materials for installation of the new system locally have been received and workmen of the Western Electric company are expected to commence work at divisional headquarters here soon.

School Pupils To Be Asked To Fill Out Personal Data

Lawrence Selected As One Of Eight Counties In Which
Tests Will Be Made

Lawrence County has been selected as one of eight counties in the state in which the Department of Public Instruction will try an experiment of securing data relative to public school pupils with a view to determining the vocational preferences of pupils.

Blanks are now being sent out by Superintendent of Schools, John C. Syling, with the request that pupils fill them out. These blanks contain personal questions as to the age of the pupil, name of parents, habits, preference as to modes of recreation, and other data.

The idea is to find out if the pupil is giving any thought to a life work, and if so, in what line, in order that instruction may be fitted to the future needs of the pupil. It is also planned to give instruction on the different trades and professions, so that the pupil may have an idea as to the chances of success.

A copy of the questionnaire, after it has been filled out, will be kept at each school house, and also at the office of the county superintendent. From the copy kept at the school houses, new teachers will be able to form an idea as to the home life, likes and dislikes, and aspirations of the pupil.

It is believed that such data will be of material assistance to teachers in fitting instruction to the requirements of the pupil. If the plan is a success in the eight counties in which it is to be tried, it will likely be adopted in other counties.

Now that foreign visitors have praised Iowa's new roads in fifteen tongues, maybe the taxpayers of the state will appreciate them better. —The Des Moines Tribune-Capital.

Judge Lewis Makes Appeal

Subscriptions Of $1,500 Are Made Sunday By Local Jewry

PART OF CAMPAIGN IN UNITED STATES

A stirring appeal by Judge William M. Lewis of the Philadelphia court of domestic relations, national chairman of the Jewish allied campaign on the destitution and poverty of their co-religionists in eastern Europe resulted in a subscription of $1,500 by members of New Castle Jewry who gathered at a mass meeting in The Castleton Sunday to inaugurate the drive in this district.

The meeting was preceded by a luncheon to the visiting speaker. Before subscriptions had been called by the district chairman, Harry H. Frank, it was announced that $500 was raised at the luncheon.

"I know of no land where the lot of Jewry is so happy as it is in this country," Judge Lewis declared in his talk. He painted a vivid picture of poverty in cities and villages in Lithuania, Poland and Roumania.

$6,000,000 Campaign

The campaign inaugurated by the speaker is part of a national fund-raising effort to raise $6,000,000 by the allied Jewish campaign for the American Jewish joint distribution committee's reconstruction work in behalf of the destitute Jews of eastern Europe and for the program of the Jewish Agency for Palestine to aid in the development there of a Jewish homeland.

Rabbi I. S. Zaczek, spiritual leader of Beth Shalom congregation, delivered the invocation at the luncheon. Chairman Frank spoke briefly and expressed his appreciation for local Jewry's response and co-operation. Mr. Frank introduced Mr. L. Kohn, president of the local Hadassah, who in turn introduced the speaker, Judge Lewis. The jurist spoke briefly at the luncheon, since his address was to be made at the mass meeting.

Mass Meeting
The meeting was opened with a prayer by Rabbi J. B. Menkes of Temple Israel. Mrs. Nat H. Cowan, a newcomer to this city, well known as a radio vocalist throughout the East, sang several vocal selections, including Mana-Zueva's "Rachem" in Hebrew and Yiddish. Mrs. Cowan was accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Eliah Kaplan.

Dr. Eliah Kaplan presided at the mass meeting and introduced the visiting judge. The speaker spoke at length on the need for the national fund, which today incorporated all the national Jewish charities.

Attorney Maurice J. Kraus of Ellwood City addressed the meeting on the importance of the drive, declaring Ellwood City would hold a similar campaign to help the fund. Subscriptions were taken.

The chairman of the district campaign, Mr. Frank, has called a meeting of the local organization this evening at the Beth Shalom center, beginning at eight o'clock. The meeting will be held for the purpose of organizing the committee's activities during the week in behalf of the drive, which will end on the 17th.

Leaves for Sharon

At the conclusion of the mass meeting a committee from Sharon arrived here to escort Judge Lewis to that city to inaugurate Sharon's allied Jewish campaign drive. The committee consisted of Rabbi M. Moskowitz of the House of Israel congregation; S. S. Bolotin, chairman of the committee for the drive; Sam Lurie, honorable chairman; Meyer Frank of Farrell, Harry Rutman and Isadore Zeff.

Judge Lewis was met at the station, where he arrived Sunday morning, by a delegation comprised of Chairman Frank, A. Marlin, L. Kuzewich, Mrs. L. Kohn, Ben Kline, Leonard Goldblatt, Dr. H. A. Frank.

Polish-American Folks Celebrate

Carnegie Auditorium Is Well
Filled For Meeting
On Sunday

Carnegie auditorium was well filled Sunday afternoon when the Polish-American people of this city celebrated the 100th anniversary of the insurrection of Poland against Russian domination. The affair was also in celebration of the 12th anniversary of the signing of the Armistice ending the World war.

Speakers of the day included District Attorney John S. Powers, A. Kazyan of Youngstown, O., and A. J. Kurczak of Wheeling, W. Va.

The music of the day was especially fitting. Under the direction of Miss Marie Dutkiewicz, organist and chorister of St. Philip and James Church, the mixed choir of the church presented a number of selections, while 100 selected boys and girls sang the same program of songs they used on Pulaski Day.

The celebration was most successful, and tied in two outstanding events in the history of Poland and Polish-Americans.

Pennsylvania Is Leading State In Soft Coal Output

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Pennsylvania led all other bituminous producing states in the amount of soft coal produced in 1929 according to final revised figures made public by the United States Bureau of Mines today.

These figures showed the Keystone state leading West Virginia, the next state on the list, by 4,997,000 tons with a gross output of 143,516,000 tons. West Virginia, however, had a greater production in August and September than did Pennsylvania.

In the Anthracite field, Pennsylvania's hard coal production was set at 73,828,000 tons. The national production figures for the nation in the hard coal department show a total of 608,817,000 tons.

Police Put Stop To Sunday Game

The score was nothing to nothing late Sunday afternoon in the championship contest between the Marcella and Croton football teams, when the police arrived on the scene at the Cascade street grounds, as the result of numerous complaints and stopped the game. A crowd of a thousand people was witnessing the contest and a considerable number of officers were needed in order to stop the game, which according to the complaints made was not only contrary to the law on Sunday, but the noise was very annoying to many people.

Busses To Park In "Muny" Plot

Louis Hoon, member of the sanitary police department was named chief of the parking plot police. All the available space along the thoroughfares will be required by the Armistice day parade, Councilman Treser stated.

Pile Suffers

End Your Misery Without Salves or Cutting

External treatments cannot permanently end Piles. Nor does cutting remove the cause.

The cause is internal—bad circulation of the blood in the lower bowel. The veins are flabby—the bowel walls weak—the parts almost dead. To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles an internal medicine must be used to heal and strengthen the affected parts.

Dr. J. S. Leonard, a specialist, after years of study discovered a real internal Pile remedy. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and prescribed it for 1000 patients, with the marvelous record of success in 999 cases, and then decided every Pile sufferer should be able to get HEM-ROID from their own druggist.

Don't waste time on external remedies or think of the pain and expense of an operation until you have tried HEM-ROID. McKee's or Beckwith's of New Castle, Inc. will supply you and guarantee money back if it does not end all Pile misery.

Firemen Follow Neighbors' Example Wield Brooms To End Big Grass Fire

A broom's claim to the distinction of being a domestic implement was challenged Sunday evening by No. 3 fire station firemen and volunteers called by Haus avenue residents, who telephoned that a grass fire had taxed the energy of many residents.

When Captain I. M. Rhodes, Lieutenant O. J. Davies, firemen, and three volunteers of No. 3 station arrived on the scene a thick woodland north of Haus avenue, near the Gibbons property, they found a lively scene which had been staged for some time before the firemen had even been called.

Grass, old tree stumps and brush were blazing away. Several residents were doing their best to end the fire with the aid of brooms. Some had become tired, fire-fighting being a strenuous occupation.

Firemen, including Captain Rhodes, grasped brooms from the hands of the original fire-fighters and beat the flames. Chemical extinguishers were also used. The fire was out after the brooms had been put into service and Captain Rhodes telephoned central fire station late Sunday evening that no more trouble was expected in the fire area.

Wood Discourages Migration For Idle

Declares Quest For Work In Other Cities Would Be Futile At Present

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—Chairman Wood, of the president's committee on unemployment, today urged jobless men and women to seek work at home first to limit what he described as futile labor migrations.

Wood also announced a re-check of the unemployment census in selected areas is under consideration by a statistician devising plans for complete information on the trend of unemployment in industries.

From Pottstown, Pennsylvania, R. H. Stare, Chamber of Commerce secretary, gave the committee a picture of young men "chasing rainbows" in migrations. Wood made public Stare's letter, observing "it seems to me that thousands of men, traveling from one city to another, looking for work, will do so in vain. As this depression is so general and exists in virtually every community, each city now has a surplus of men. How can these fellows, traveling from one city to another, expect to find work?"

Hints In Drawing Clothing

(This is the final drawing, by nationally famous artists, to prepare grammar school entrants in nationwide cartoon contests of Central Press. Instructions on sending in cartoons will appear tomorrow.)

By R. J. SCOTT

In doing cartoons there are many hints in regard to drawing clothing which are helpful to the beginner. Here are a few, illustrated above:

1. In drawing a hat make the brim a long figure eight. If drawn in this manner you will acquire the proper set of a hat on a head.
2. Fur can be simulated easily by making little scratch marks on the outline of the garment.
3. To portray spats, draw only the bottom of the shoe, the gap between shoe and trouser creates the illusion of spats.
4. Collars should give the illusion of going around the neck. Never draw a little square box at the bottom of the neck and fool yourself into believing it looks like a collar.
5. Beads can be simulated by draping the neck with disconnected dots.
6. In drawing shoes, leaving white spots (called high lights) on toe alongside and at the heel, creates the illusion of high polish.
7. Gray or cross-striped clothing can be portrayed in the manner shown above.

NOTICE TO CONTESTANTS
Full instructions on how to send in your cartoons will be given in tomorrow's paper. Look for these instructions—and follow directions!

Bo Broadway by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—The man who used to wear goggles, gauntlets and a long linen duster when he was driving his driver, now has a son who does full golf regalia to play a Tom Thumb course.

LOVE VOTERS

The equipment and personnel of two widely separated election precincts in Tammany Town are maintained for the benefit of two lone voters.

One of them, resident boiler-engineer in the garment district, cast his ballot one minute after the polls opened at 6 a. m., and for the ensuing 12 hours four inspectors, a watcher and two policemen sat around discussing life and love and correcting Time's ravages on their fingernails.

At 6 o'clock at night the engineer's vote was duly inserted into a bulky envelope and carted downtown where it was recorded in the Republican column.

The other lone voter, a Harlem watchman, appeared at his polling place an hour before closing time and nullified the engineer's ballot by a gargantuan twist of the Democratic lever on the voting machine.

It cost the city about $3,500 for the engineer and the watchman to play a draw.

"Them's the Democrats!"

AN EVEN BREAK

Ten months ago the Hotel New Yorker, Tammany Town's largest caravansaria, opened its doors. In that period 500,000 guests have parked their pups there. I get these figures from Brother Ralph Hitz, managing director of the hostelry who writes to inform me that "thus far only $1 has been left behind in the hotel's 2,500 Bibles."

The Worthy Brother, who is a bit of a statistician, continues:

"Since this dollar was returned and no other losses have been reported the per capita loss is zero and the per capita amount left behind is $.000002."

I won't vouch for the accuracy of this computation. I know nothing about Per Capita and my ignorance of averages is unfathomable. Supposing it to be true.

May I quote The Duchess and inquire: "What of it?"

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

Brother Hitz says: "Since human forgetfulness hasn't changed much, it is fair to assume that the number of cases of money found in Bibles is an indication of the use of Bibles for the purpose."

I suppose he means for the purpose of hiding money.

Personally I think Mr. Hitz' premise is all wet and his conclusion has a varicose vein. A man might place a dollar bill in the leaves of the Bible to hold the place when he gets up to answer the phone, or again he may slip a bean into Deuteronomy to reward some religiously inclined chambermaid who stops making the bed to dip into Holy Writ for a bit of inspiration or courage.

It's a subject, as you can see, that merits much thought.

REACHING FOR VOTES

A Republican district leader was "stuck up" in his club room, adjoining a police station the other day and relieved of $500. Detectives questioned him concerning the bandits' appearance.

"They looked to me like Democrats," he said.

Warn Girls Not To Seek Jobs In N. Y. City

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—This is no time for girls to come to this city looking for jobs and hoping to get along somehow, warns the Southern Women's Educational Alliance.

The alliance exists to help southern girls in vocational guidance, to assist them when they come to New York and to prepare them, by talks upon the types of work demanded in the North and particularly in New York, before they leave southern cities.

Field workers lately were advised however to warn southern girls to avoid New York until the present unemployment crisis is over. Other organizations it was said, particularly the Young Women's Christian Association, are making similar warnings.

Chivalry and tact aren't dead. When a married man is found murdered in bed, detectives act puzzled for a day or two.

Socialists Hold Austrian Power

Minority Government Headed By Chancellor Karl Vaugin Stays In Power

FASCIST PARTY IS DEFEATED

By ALFRED TYRNAUER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

VIENNA, Nov. 10.—The minority government headed by Chancellor Karl Vaugin, member of the Christian Social party, remained in power in Austria today following parliamentary elections which saw comparatively little change in the political lineup.

Revised unofficial results gave the Socialists 72 seats in the house, the Christian Socialists, or Clericals, 66, and the "Schober bloc", an agglomeration of parties headed by former Chancellor Dr. Johann Schober, 90. Dr. Schober's own party, the Economic, obtained 20 seats.

The elections marked the decisive parliamentary defeat of the Austrian Fascist party, or Heimwehr, headed by young Prince Ernst Rüdiger von Stahrenberg, militant minister of the interior in the present cabinet. The Fascists won only eight seats in parliament.

Victory for Democracy.

Prince von Stahrenberg remained mum today, refusing to say whether or not he would carry out his threats to "cowhide whip his opponents and treat the constitution as a scrap of paper" whether his party emerged victorious or not.

Dr. Vaugin, although a Fascist sympathizer, is pledged to a constitutional course. His office today flatly repudiated prevalent rumors of a Fascist putsch or coup d'état. It is understood parliament will convene as quickly as possible to prepare the budget, which is due by the first of the year.

It was reported today the Christian Socialists would withdraw their support from von Stahrenberg, but the young noble was expected to resign his ministerial post almost immediately.

The Socialists, who retain numerical strength in the chamber, today hailed the elections as a victory for democracy.

Hawks said he might have made faster time but that he did not especially attempt a record hop and "cruised along" part of the way. He computed his average speed at 190 miles an hour, flying the final 600 miles at a rate of 210 miles an hour.
Hawks was given an ovation when he jumped from his plane here and offered a group of welcoming friends copies of Havana morning newspapers.

Health Of Nation Is Good, According To Census Bureau

By ROBERT S. THORNBURGH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—America, with all its business ills and worries, is at least in good health, according to reports to the Public Health Service and Statistics gathered by the Census Bureau.

For the first 44 weeks of the year in 78 principal cities in all sections of the country there were 7,749 deaths compared with 7,825 the same period of 1929. The death rate was somewhat reduced.
This was held to be particularly noteworthy in view of the continued increase in the deaths from automobile accidents. In the 78 cities over the 44 week period auto deaths numbered 5,727 this year, compared with 5,691 in 1929.

Public health experts said the general condition of the country's health was substantially better than a year ago judging from reports on diseases. In the fall of 1929 an influenza epidemic developed. This epidemic extended into January and February of 1930.

There is practically no flu in the country at this time and no epidemic is anticipated during the winter. The epidemic of infantile paralysis has been giving public health authorities some concern but the number of cases at the present time is small.

Mission Collection Truck To Operate Tuesdays, Fridays

Ask Residents To Co-Operate
By Donating Old Clothing,
Food Or Cash

Thanking the residents of New Castle for their generous response to appeals for clothing, shoes and other donations in the past, City Rescue Mission officers today asked for further co-operation to the end that additional needy folks living here might be cared for.
In the past the custom of the mission has been to collect donations at any time, on the request of the donors. This method has proved quite costly, however, and has prompted officials to set aside certain days for such a purpose.
The mission truck, hereafter, will make collections on Tuesdays and Fridays of each week, covering the entire city. The operator of the truck will be authorized to receive and receipt for any financial contribution.

CHICAGO, Nov. 10.—A discharged employee of the Little Company of Mary hospital was sought today by authorities following the murder of John Weber, night fireman, and the discovery of an alleged plot to kill 70 inmates by an explosion.

Weber was found dead in the hospital boiler room. The slayer evidently had closed the safety valve and shut off the water pump feeding the boiler tank. The small amount of water left in the red hot boiler had generated steam approaching the point of explosion when the situation was discovered.

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Reports that Miss Amelia Earhart, aviatrix, and George Palmer Putnam, publisher, had been married Saturday evening at the Putnam summer home at Noank, Conn., were denied today. Mrs. John Bishop Putnam said the reports were untrue and a denial was made by Miss Earhart in Washington.

Mrs. Putnam said that her son and Miss Earhart had visited the Putnam home Saturday afternoon but had not made plans for or even discussed a marriage.

These denials followed a statement of the Probate Judge Arthur P. Anderson who announced he had waived the Connecticut five-day marriage license law for the publisher and the flier. He said, however, he had not performed the ceremony. Henry L. Bailey, Croton,

Captain Ammel On Flight To Panama

Chicago Broker And Flyer
Leaves Brooklyn With Panama As Goal

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Airport officials early today had received no word of Captain Roy W. Ammel, Chicago broker and flyer, who left Floyd Bennett airport, Brooklyn, on Sunday afternoon, on a nonstop flight to the Panama Canal.
Ammel expected to complete the 2,650 mile flight in about 21 hours, arriving at France Field, Canal Zone shortly before noon today.

The Chicago flyer planned to shoot down the Atlantic Coast and expected fair weather except over the Caribbean. He is flying a Low-wing plane and carried 700 gallons of gas when he hopped off.

His course, as he planned it, would take him over Washington and across Virginia, then to Jacksonville, thence along the Florida coast and over the Western tip of Cuba.

Ammel had planned to trans-Atlantic flight but recently announced he would postpone that attempt until spring.

New Jersey Man Admits He Set
Fire To Bed Causing Death
Of Third Wife

(International News Service)
NEWARK, N. J., Nov. 10.—"I'd rather die in the chair than get a life sentence for this."
That was what Howard Swavely, Jersey City insurance salesman, said before he was to be arraigned today on charges of murder and arson for burning to death his third wife Elsiebeth. The middle-aged man confessed he set fire to his wife's bed and caused the fire in which she was fatally burned, police said.

According to the officers, Swavely admitted the crime, after he was confronted by his second wife, Linnie, a resident of Philadelphia.
A son of Swavely, born to his first wife, residing in Flushing, N. Y., said today he would do all he could to aid his father. The son is Robert Greifenberger, 21. He was adopted when 17 years old by Swavely's sister.

At least one married man has come out boldly and declared his contempt for women. He did it in his will.

ACID STOMACH

THE FRANK FACTS ABOUT IT

Lack of Knowledge Causing Much Needless Suffering

You doubtless know that acid stomach is the common cause of indigestion, heartburn, gas pains, dizziness, headaches, listlessness, etc. But do you realize that through faulty attempts to secure relief many of us are aggravating instead of correcting the trouble?
Medical authorities offer this explanation. Your stomach secretes gastric juices. These juices are normally acid. They must contain a certain amount of hydrochloric acid in order to digest your food.
At times, however, food ferments in the stomach. This causes excess acid—harmful ones. You begin to feel miserable. So you seek relief and all too often cause more harm. For ordinary remedies go too far. They not only neutralize the harmful excess acids, but they also neutralize the important acid of the gastric juices. The result—acidity—too little acid. Digestion stops and again we suffer.

Pepsin-Bismol acts on a different principle. It is scientifically compounded to go just so far and no further. It stops fermentation and the formation of excess acids. But the formation of excess acids is not the matter. How much Pepsin-Bismol you take, it cannot harm digestion. It coats the irritated membranes with a bland, protective film. And it doesn't cause any violent reactions, hiccoughs or internal rumblings such as soda often does. The stomach is calmed by Pepsin-Bismol—not agitated.
Prompt and sure in action. Pleasant to take. Pepsin-Bismol has been prescribed by doctors for over 25 years for adults, children and infants. Guaranteed by the makers of Unifortine. Get the 3-cornered bottle at your druggist's today—only 50c. The Norwich Pharmacal Company, Norwich, N. Y.

Clothing Work Starts Tuesday

Three Rural Groups To Receive Instruction In Sewing For Three Weeks

SPECIALIST TO HELP IN WORK

Clothing center work will be started in the rural districts of Lawrence county this week, according to announcement this morning by Miss Dorothy Etter, State Home Economics extension representative. Miss Ruth Clayton, clothing specialist from State College will assist the local representative in the clothing work from November 11 to December 4.

During that period Miss Etter will spend her entire time in Lawrence county instead of dividing it with the home economics groups in Mercer county. Miss Clayton will also spend her entire time working in this county.

Since Miss Etter's appointment as state representative to Lawrence and Mercer counties she has held meetings of women and girls interested in taking free instruction in sewing, cooking and household management and arranged a schedule for the groups. A large number of Lawrence county women and girls have joined the groups and are keenly interested in the work.

Miss Etter spent last week in Mercer county. She came to New Castle this morning and spent the early hours at her headquarters—the Lawrence County Agricultural Extension Association office on South Croton avenue. She is spending the afternoon in the county rural districts, organizing more groups.

Program of group meetings this week to be conducted by Miss Etter and Miss Clayton is as follows:

Tuesday, November 11—Big Beaver township group at the home of Mrs. Joseph Wilson.

Wednesday, November 12—Wayne township women at the home of Mrs. Montgomery.

Thursday, November 13—Mahoning township women at the home of Mrs. Montgomery.

Friday, November 14—The Big Beaver group meets again at the home of Mrs. Wilson.

Miss Etter will spend Saturday mornings at the extension headquarters and anyone who would like to join any of the groups and receive instruction in sewing are asked to call in at headquarters.

The meetings are all day affairs and information of useful nature is received. The only expense is that of materials.

This week the women will cut out a muslin pattern and prepare for fitting. Miss Clayton will give special demonstrations during the afternoon.

Suit To Recover Balance On Bill

Case Of J. L. Miller Against Henry G. Fox On Trial Before Judge Hildebrand

J. L. Miller and his wife, Alma Miller, are plaintiffs in a suit taken up before Judge Hildebrand this morning in which they are seeking to recover $306.85 from Henry G. Fox of Perry township.

It is claimed that after the death of her husband, Lena Fox, mother of Henry G. Fox, lived with relatives for some time and then went to the home of the Millers with whom she was acquainted. She liked to stay at Millers, and a verbal agreement is alleged to have been made between the Millers and Henry G. Fox in which he was to pay $5 per week board and room for his mother, so long as she did not require any special attention.

Later Mrs. Fox became blind and required more attention. Millers put in a bill for $10 per week to cover the additional care. A dispute arose as to the payment of the $10 per week. The total bill was $1,172.55 on which there has been paid $776 by Fox, leaving a balance of $396.85 over which the dispute has arisen.

The Millers claim the $10 per week is a reasonable charge, considering the extra work of looking after Mrs. Fox. The defendant thinks it is too much.

The Parent Problem

by GARRY C. MYERS, Ph.D.

Keep Promise To Child If Humanly Possible And Retain His Respect

It's Good For Parents To Help Their Sons, Spending Time
With Them In Play, Declares D. Myers.

By GARRY C. MYERS, Ph. D.
Head Division Parental Education
Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

Our children never seem to forget a promise we have made. We often wish they would. I sat down to write some of these articles one day. I finished one, when along came my lad of seven.

"Do you remember, Dad, you promised me that when there was enough snow you would go out with me to make a big snow man?"

"Sure enough, I did" was my not very enthusiastic reply. I went and we had a good time.

A few hours later, while we were in the house came along some larger boys of the neighborhood and knocked our snow man down. The young creator was disturbed and I felt rather angry. My temptation was to go out and scold the bullies as they hurried off. My better judgment restrained me. The damage had been done and I knew how vain it is to try to discipline other people's children. I tried to turn my boy to other interests with the remark that he could not do anything about it and, "I hope you never are a bully toward younger children."

I had kept my promise and had earned my lad's respect. By and by other children of his age gathered and they joined in making snow men and snow forts. It was good for me to help my boy make a snow man, good for me to keep my promise, and, to have me spend some time with him in play was good for him; but I was not so good playmate as the other children of his age. No parent can take the place of normal playmates.

Suppose you promise the older children to go to a movie with them, say, on Friday evening. You are all about ready to go when some guests arrive. If you know them very well you may properly tell them of your plans, and if they have a sensible attitude toward children they will not be hurt. But in most instances you will feel compelled to play the part of good hosts and your children may even have to forego the much cherished picture show. In that event they should have learned long since that situations arise which cannot be prevented, which make it impossible for you to fulfill promises literally, but that you will do your utmost to fulfill them in spirit by and by, and that you will "go the second mile in doing so."

Of course it is a wholesome thing for our children to learn to adjust themselves to inevitable disappointments, and to be ready to make great sacrifices at times out of consideration for others; for them to learn early to be gracious hosts, even at the greatest personal inconveniences.

In case you find your child much upset when fulfillment of your promises are inevitably delayed or interfered with, you can reduce your difficulties if you will make it a habit to add a reservation to each promise somewhat like this, "If nothing arises which we cannot avoid."

Of course the child who has not always had his own way, who has not been waited on too much, who has not had nearly all his wishes gratified has learned from early infancy to expect many interruptions of those who are doing things for him, or who have promised to do things for him. The child about ready to go somewhere with his parents when guests arrive has missed some valuable training somewhere if he flies into a rage or acts discourteously toward the company.

Horton At Capital For Scout Confab

With Forty Regional Leaders Talks Scout Plans; Calahan Attends

Nearly forty laymen and executives of scout councils in three states attended a regional conference on Scouting held in Harrisburg last Saturday. Scout Executive H. G. Horton representing the Lawrence County council, and Commodore J. Edgar Hires, of the Hires Root Beer company, presided, and conducted a very helpful day of work in this older boy activity. Thomas Keane, national director of Scouting, and J. Lee Calahan, regional director, were also present.

Commodore Israel of the Harrisburg area, demonstrated how popular this activity can become. He showed the conference men over the land ship "Stephen Decatur," an 185-foot land ship, set up in the Harrisburg park area on an island in the Susquehanna, the American Legion of Harrisburg having sponsored the project and the Bell Telephone Company having furnished much work and material. This land ship is to be used as a clubhouse by the Scouts of the Harrisburg area, and 38 are already enrolled and in uniform. Scouting has taken long strides in the country during 1930, and will probably advance even more in 1931. Region Three is making splendid progress. The group of council leaders and older boys who took the training course recently held at Camp Phillips, will soon be called together, and the plan for local extension worked out. A Scoutmaster (the local layman who heads up the work of the volunteers) must first be named, and this is receiving consideration at the present time.

Box Cars, Train Shed Burned In $500 Fire Near P. R. R. Offices

Firemen Save Train Shed Beside Pennsylvania Freight House Early Sunday

Pennsylvania Railroad authorities this morning were investigating a fire which damaged two empty freight cars and a train shed alongside the West Washington street freight station early Sunday morning, causing damage estimated at $500 by Assistant Fire Chief H. Clare Stockman.

When firemen responded to the scene at 2:35 a. m. Sunday, flames were shooting into the air over the top of the car shed which is located beside the freight house. According to Stockman's belief, the blaze originated in a box car, burned a side and set fire to another car, then continued to the roof of the shed. The fire was extinguished after firemen had laid 600 feet of hose and battled the fire for over an hour.

Freight Agent Charles J. Callahan declared this morning that he did not know what started the fire. He could not shed much light on the matter.

JOSEPH JASTROW, AT WESTMINSTER

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—Joseph Jastrow, eminent American psychologist, will lecture to students and faculty members at Westminster College Tuesday evening in the community house. Dr. Jastrow's lecture will be the fourth on the college lecture course for the year. Dr. Jastrow occupied the chair of psychology at the University of Wisconsin from 1888 to 1927, quitting then to go on the platform as a lecturer. He is still professor emeritus at Wisconsin.

Dr. Jastrow spoke at Westminster last year and so enthusiastic was his reception that he was asked to return. He will speak tomorrow evening on "Social Traits and Human Nature."

An author of note, a splendid lecturer and one of the outstanding psychologists in the world, Dr. Jastrow is able to popularize a subject so often misunderstood by the average person.

Mrs. J. L. Collingridge of Chicago was awakened one night recently by the meowing of her cat. The noise she made in the room frightened away a burglar who was downstairs.

ACHIEVEMENT

The shoulders weary and the muscles ache.
Rest, rest, we plead, let comfort be again.
And ease return and absent all of pain.
Pleasure is all we are content to take,
But who wants roses off the ground must break.
Who would a higher footing here attain
Must suffer much his little dream to gain,
And struggle onward for achievement's sake.
That rest which follows weariness is sweet,
But peace and pleasure properly are brief.
They are the antidotes life gives for grief,
Despair and disappointment and defeat;
They are achievement's solace for man's pain
And only good because so hard to gain.

Ellwood High Wins Thrilling Game From New Brighton Team

Battle Results In Victory
For Ellwood 18-13 On Saturday

Game In Doubt Until Final Whistle—Ellwood Is Improved

(By TONY PASTA)

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 10.—

Thrill after thrill took place on the Lincoln field on Saturday afternoon when the Ellwood City

High gridders nosed out an 18-

13 victory over the New Brighton warriors before a large crowd of students and fans.

Both teams fought hard throughout the battle and it was anybody's game until the last whistle blew.

The visitors drew first blood when

Cappo tossed a long one to Brown over the line. But in the second quarter Condi broke through the interference and skirted forty yards to bring the score to a deadlock of 6-6 as neither team were successful in adding the extra point.

New Brighton again started the fireworks when in the last part of the third quarter Glaab threw a pass to Roth to break the tie and

J. Grimm kicked the extra point to make the standing 13 to 6 in favor of the opponents. But was the blue and white ready to accept defeat?

This was soon proven when Frisk accepted a punt and skirted around the end at a fast clip to cover almost fifty yards and to cross the line.

But the crimson still held the lead

as Neff failed to kick it over for the extra point and left the count 13-12.

By starting an aerial attack the blue and white started down the field after accepting a punt on their own fifteen yard line. Cunningham immediately threw the pigskin to Frisk for a healthy gain of 25 yards.

Cunningham bucked the line to another first down. Condi picked up two yards but the fans were brought on their feet when Cunningham threw a long pass to Neff

who ran the oval within five yards of the line after having covered forty five yards.

With the ball this close to the goal and victory within sight the hugle machine began ransacking

the opponent's wall. Condi took plunges to net about three yards and on the third attempt Cunningham earned the pigskin and leaped over the mass of warriors to go over the line and bring victory for the Tubers. Frisk missed for the extra point but the locals had marked up enough to defeat the visitors.

But there were plenty of thrills that took place during the remainder of this classic. On one occasion

Cunningham tere loose for almost forty yards and then later Frisk completed a pass to Neff over the line but a blue and white man was caught holding and the ball was brought back for a fifteen yard penalty on Ellwood. Then Brown intercepted a pass and ran fifty yards across the goal line but his efforts were also in vain when the officials called the oval back because of illegal interference. In the latter part of the second session the Tubers marched the ball within the five yard line but lost it when Shar-dane, a lineman, intercepted a pass.

Never before did Ellwood's crew of warriors wear in such a first-class fashion. Cunningham, Frisk

and Condi were all in peak of condition and gave good account of themselves

throughout the battle. Neff was outstanding with his all around work.

His long pass in the last session which covered forty yards was instrumental in bringing victory to his mates. He himself almost scored the winning marker as he lacked only five yards of crossing the line. His defensive work was a continual menace to the crimson and gold aggregation. Vogt, who has been on the injured list, saw action again and played a bang up game until the last period when he was hurt again and taken out of the fray. Welsh and Shardone also showed up well on the line.

Brown and Roth did the scoring for the visitors but Cappo was in the limelight with his general field work.

Time after time he would ram the Ellwood line and was more or less successful in piercing through it. He also played well on the defense and made his presence felt at all times.

Ellwood accepted the kick off and advanced the ball to the opponent's forty five yard line where they were forced to give the oval up. New

Brighton hit the Tubers line but could not gain and soon punted. An exchange of punts followed and when the blue and white punted again

Cunningham got away a poor kick which went to his own thirty yard line. Then the fatal blow came as the Board crew tossed a pass which was intercepted by Brown who passed the ball to Frisk. Brown crossed the line with it for the first score of the tip.

Grimm missed the kick over for the extra point.

The visitors kicked off and Neff returned it to his own 37 yard line.

Cunningham muffed the ball on the next play and attempted to pass

but was not completed. Frisk missed the ball and Cunningham was successful and broke through the line to skirt along forty yards. Frisk

Cunningham and Condi each carried the oval to net a first down. Then

Neff attempted to pass again

but Frisk brought the ball over the line but it was called back because of illegal interference. The blue and white was also granted a first down

this battle will bring the 1930 season to a close.

Rev. A. M. Stevenson Gives

Brilliant Address On

"Armistice Day

Speaks"

ELLWOOD CITY, Nov. 10.—A large gathering of representatives from local churches met for a Union Memorial service Sunday evening in the Lincoln auditorium and completely filled that large hall to hear the program arranged in honor of

Armistice Day.

Honor guests were members of the

J. Wilbur Randolph post, Gold Star

Mothers and members of the Legion

Auxiliary. These occupied the front rows in impressive numbers.

Rev. A. M. Stevenson, who gave the sermon, chose as his subject,

"Armistice Day Speaks" and embodied in a forceful sermon three facts concerning the remembrance of the day. First, that the people pledged themselves to carry on the occasion of the first Armistice Day.

Second what has been done to make good that pledge for the past eleven years. Third, a strong challenge to the people of America to fulfill that pledge and rise to a higher level and prevent cries of future wars from taking seed in the minds of the people. Rev. Stevenson closed his sermon with the fervent hope that the present Armistice Day would be the last one to follow a war.

The balance of the program was

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations
Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

The road to Youngstown was a busy place Saturday afternoon. Seemed as though everybody who had a car and could get away was over there at the football game, and most of the cars were loaded to the door handles.

One car in particular had more than its share. It was a sedan and inside there were about seven young fellows bound for the game. On each of the bumperettes in back was perched a youngster, holding to his rather precarious perch by grasping the spare tire.

No overcoats, no gloves, just ordinary street clothes and caps, and by the time they got to Youngstown they certainly were chilled stiff.

Some of the boys got too enthusiastic on the Harbor Hill coming back and passed a truck on the curve. A highway patrolman stationed at the top of the hill put a stop to that, probably just in time to stop a couple of accidents.

It takes genuine devotion to get up at four o'clock in the morning to meet the wife getting off an early train. But when she falls back to sleep and goes on through to Pittsburgh, what to do is the question.

A lad upon the East Side had the experience the other morning. The better fifty per cent had been visiting in the middle west and wired that she would be home on the B. & O. train getting in at 4:50 in the morning. Business of setting the alarm for four o'clock and piling out when the world was asleep.

Sleepily he got the car out of the garage and yawningly started down to the seventh ward station. The train pulled in and three men got off, but no wife. Rather irritated, the East Sider went back home and went back to bed. Several hours later friend wife checked in from Pittsburgh. She had fallen back to sleep about Edenburg, and when she awoke, the train was by Zanesville.

The good weather we had for football in this section, Saturday didn't extend as far north as Oil City. Joe Hartman, coach of the Grove City High school team, a former New Castle lad, was in town Sunday night and was thoroughly disgusted with the Saturday weather.

His boys had to play on a field covered with snow and mud, and hitting the line was just the prelude to digging up pounds of slush and mud with the nose. To add to the misery, Oil City scored a touchdown on a run that Joe swears was partly out of bounds.

Once every season some old grad or ex-coach breaks out with some startling proposal to change the present day vogue of football teams. The latest one is to cut out nighty paid coaches, cut out a lot of press agent ballyhoo, and let the captain of the team pick his own players.

Sounds nice, but will probably go the way of all other freak suggestions. The gentleman in question says that college football is a racket these days. True enough but the most of the racket comes from the fans, unless it be the racket that comes from the alumni if the team drops a few.

College football is too firmly entrenched at the present time to permit any such revolutionary changes. It may be that it is just a vogue and will die out of its own accord, but for some years yet, we'll probably continue to see crowds of 75,000 and upwards, crowding stadia to see dear old Upsala and Swish battle for the glory of the alma.

E-Y Program At Highland Church

The Gospel Team of the E-Y held their annual services Sunday evening in the Highland United Presbyterian church and a delightful and profitable service it was.

This organization, that does so much for the life of the High School deserves the encouragement of the people of the city. William Shira is president of the organization this year and presided at the service.

After the usual organ prelude and hymns an interesting talk on "Courage" was given by Frank Baldwin; William Shira spoke on "Obedience." Edward McCowan spoke on "Service" and Robert Wilkins on "Spreading the Gospel" and their talks were enthusiastically received as they showed much thought and preparation on the part of the young men.

Correct this sentence: "No matter how much they fuss," said Dad. "I'm going to keep the house temperature down to 70 this winter."

GOOD MUSIC in our country has grown to a glorious blossoming. American orchestras, American musicians now rank with the finest in the world. Shall we continue to nurture and cherish this beautiful flower, or shall we let it dwindle and die under blighting Canned Music poured out by mechanical Robots?

Which do you prefer for the money you pay at the theatre box office? The stirring performance of Living Music played and felt by flesh-and-blood musicians, or a strident din from the throat of a piece of machinery? Shall it be glamor or clamor? Naval Limitation Delegates Confer

Secret Meeting Held By Delegates Of Five Naval Powers At Geneva

League Commission May Soon Get Provisional Text Of Agreement

By ROBERT W. THOMPSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

GENEVA, Nov. 10.—The provisional text of an agreement outlining methods of naval limitation will be received by the preparatory committee of the League of Nations before the week is over, according to prevalent opinion in well-informed circles today.

A secret meeting between delegates of the five naval powers in the hotel room of Viscount Cecil of Chelwood, chief British delegate, yesterday, is believed to have paved the way for formulation of an agreement.

While many technical obstacles remained in the way of the agreement, the belief persisted that the week would see most of the outstanding difficulties cleared up, so that if it accomplishes nothing else, the commission will have succeeded in bridging at least some of the gulfs separating the powers on the matter of naval disarmament.

It was learned from a reliable source that the Italians supported the United States in refusing to consent to a reduction of capital ship tonnage from the 35,000 tons provided for in the Washington treaty to 25,000 tons. Italy also supported France's demand for a single category for light cruisers in place of the three classifications, eight-inch and six-inch cruisers and destroyers, stipulated in the London naval treaty.

It is presumed Italy will refrain from official reiteration of her parity demands with France until the bulk of naval limitation matters have been settled.

WOMAN M. P. LIKES POLITICS

Miss Agnes MacPhail

Miss Agnes C. MacPhail, the only woman member of parliament the Dominion of Canada and the only woman ever to have served in parliament, was always interested in the affairs of the country, and so naturally drifted into active politics, she says. She used no political tricks in her campaign, she declares. Is interested in the problems of the farmers, and her hobby is prison reform. She was at one time an ardent dry and has no use for liquor, but believes the United States will have to work out a program of modification in its liquor fight.

Mayor And Council Discuss Relief Plans

Council convened in formal session at the municipal building today and agreed to take steps which they believed will have a tendency to alleviate conditions which it was claimed have resulted from unemployment here.

The discussion was prompted by Councilman Clayton H. Reeves.

Council's action follows: Adoption of a resolution requesting that all salaried officials and employees of the city commencing December 3, give one day's salary each month to a relief fund.

The mayor agreed to name a relief committee consisting of 10 or 12 persons to study unemployment and conditions resulting therefrom. The committee will have charge of investigations and disbursements.

Council was informed: That Quincy McBride, De Graff Pearson and C. Ed. Smith Jr., had conferred with Mayor Gillespie and asked the city's chief executive to request the county commissioners to start construction of the Lawrence street bridge.

The mayor informed colleagues that he is to meet with athletic officials of New Castle school this week for the purpose of having New Castle-High play a post-season benefit game for the benefit of needy school children.

Councilman Reeves developed today's discussion with a resolution asking salaried employees and officials of the city to give one day's pay each month for the benefit of deserving poor.

The resolution was discussed, then passed.

Councilmen made it plain that the money would be distributed only through a committee with which the mayor agreed to appoint. Investigations will be made and only the deserving will share in the relief fund.

The mayor stated the committee would be named this week.

Mayor Gillespie informed council that Quincy McBride, De Graff Pearson and C. Ed. Smith Jr., today had conferred with him. They asked that he request the county commissioners to start construction of the Lawrence street bridge immediately. They said it would provide some employment.

Councilman Genkinger presented a motion, which passed, instructing Mayor Gillespie to communicate with the county commissioners and ask the latter to set a date for a conference. It was reported several days ago that the commissioners had promised to build the bridge, providing the city had carried out the North street improvement. This improvement has been made.

Council was informed next by Mayor Gillespie that he and Faculty Manager Ralph Gardner had discussed a proposed post-season football game. The funds, according to the mayor's plan would be employed to clothe and feed hungry school children. The fund would be administered by school officials. The conference relative to the game is to be held this week.

The mayor said he had been advised that some children going to a junior high school were in need of warm clothing and that some were forced to travel to school without any and that when lunch time came had no money with which to buy food and that they cried from hunger. He said this situation should be cared for as children should not be allowed to suffer.

Each of the city officials expressed themselves as being in favor of any plan which would help to decrease distress. However, they pointed out that only deserving and needy could be aided. The men who will serve on the relief fund board will be expected to give their time but council expressed the opinion that there would be no difficulty securing such a board.

White To Force Track Removal

Will Seek To Secure Indictment In Court He Tells Councilmen

Solicitor Robert White today advised council when session met at the municipal building that he proposed to make an attempt to have the grand jury indict the Penn-Ohio Electric Railway company for its failure to remove abandoned tracks in Beaver street, Long avenue and Hamilton street where service has been abandoned. Council granted White authority to employ ex-Judge J. Norman Martin as assistant counsel.

When councilmen met, White said that the company would not make any settlement of "difficulties" and requested permission to employ Judge J. Norman Martin. He said the matter would be brought before the next grand jury, adding, that "in my opinion this is indictable."

The solicitor said that he desired quick action and that "it is a question of criminal law."

He informed council that he has two suits in equity against the company but this contemplated action would be a different suit.

"If we do not take them into court someone will take us in," advised White after which he told the charge that would be probably be asked.

It was explained that the ex-judge would probably charge a retaining fee of $100 and charge $50 a day for each day in court.

White said the the thoroughfares are in a dangerous condition. Recently council requested the company to post a $10,000 bond for the faithful compliance of provisions under the franchise ordinance granting the company the right to operate here.

White informed council that the bond will be presented within the near future, according to advice he has received.

City Hall Offices To Close Tuesday

Passing Game Brings Victory

Captain McAuley Shows Good Generalship In Running Eleven

ROWE MAKES FINE DEBUT AS PLAYER

New Castle Shows Superiority Over Rayen At All Stages Of Game

Playing smart football throughout the contest a smooth New Castle High School grid machine defeated a fighting Rayen High eleven on Saturday afternoon at Youngstown, Ohio. The final score favored New Castle 13-7.

Captain Regis McAuley, and Luther Rowe, playing his first game as a regular were the outstanding stars for the local eleven. New Castle came through with its scores in the first and second quarters while Rayen scored its seven points in the second quarter. A crowd estimated to 5,000 fans saw the game.

New Castle got down to business at the outset by displaying a fast attack that carried the advance to the 5 yard line, where New Castle lost the ball on downs. After Rayen kicked and New Castle secured the ball on the 40 yard line, the locals came through with the first tally. A beautiful pass, McAuley to Jameson, from the 37 yard line placed the ball on the 3 yard line, and Captain McAuley hit the left tackle for the touchdown on the next play. McAuley made good the try for the extra point.

Rayen acquired the ball after the touchdown and had it on the 26 yard line as the first quarter ended. The Ohioans came through with their lone score at the start of the second quarter. On the first play, a pass from Turner to Turner took the ball to the 13 yard line. Farrar on two successful line bucks brought the piskin to the 3 yard line, where on the next play he broke through for Rayen's touchdown.

He added the seventh point by plunging through the line. The second and final touchdown which spelled defeat for the Ohio graders was registered near the end of the second quarter. After battling on even terms during half of the quarter, New Castle secured the ball on the 14 yard line. Rayen had been held to three downs on the fourteen yard mark, Hubbard was called back to punt to safety. He attempted to punt but DeCarbo broke through and blocked the punt as the ball rolled out of bounds, New Castle getting the ball.

Rowe Scores After a pass to McAuley to Thomas failed, Captain McAuley zigzagged his way through the center of the line for seven yards. With the ball on the seven yard chalk mark, McAuley hurled a pass to Rowe, who made a nice catch of the piskin, and raced only a few yards for the second touchdown. McAuley attempted to kick the point but failed.

The second half was fast with both teams making bitter attempts to score but lacked the essential punch to carry the ball over the line. The third quarter was a "see saw" affair with both teams getting the ball numerous times but losing it on downs. The third quarter ended with New Castle in possession of the ball on the 29 yard line.

New Castle came near scoring in this fourth quarter. New Castle received the ball on downs in mid field and through a series of plunges and end runs accompanied by a double pass, Thomas to Laskey brought the ball to the 15 yard mark where New Castle was held for downs. The game ended with New Castle in possession of the ball on the 27 yard mark. The final score was 13-7.

Try Many Passes Both teams tried many passes but New Castle proved the most successful. The local boys tried 11 passes. Out of this number 8 were good for gains. Rayen attempted 10 passes two of which were completed. New Castle was penalized 15 yards for being offside three times. Rayen drew 30 yards for violating the rules of the game.

New Castle scored the most first downs too. The local team was able to secure 18 first downs while Rayen could only come through with 9.

New Castle Looks Good

New Castle in defeating Rayen looked much better than the team that took over Rochester last week. The line was in the thick of the fight and played splendid football. The backfield through the aid of Mc-

Auley, Rowe and Thomas showed up well.

The New Castle lineup was somewhat revamped on Saturday afternoon. Luther Rowe who has been making a good showing in practices of late was started at right half back instead of James Sotus. Jimmy Mike who for the past three or four games played guard was shifted to right tackle in place of Askoune and Hileman played guard. This lineup appeared to function smoothly Saturday afternoon.

The Rayen eleven never gave up and was in there from the start to the finish. Farrar proved to be a tower of strength. In addition to scoring the Ohioans' touchdown, he figured in numerous plunges that resulted in four gains and several good tackles. Franklin and Turner also played well for Rayen.

For New Castle Captain McAuley was easily the outstanding star. He figured in many slashing end runs as well as several fine tackles. Luther Rowe who started the contest at halfback proved to be another find. It was this lad who snatched that pass in the second quarter that "spilled the beans." He caught several other good passes and in many instances made good gains through the line.

On the line Jameson, DeCarbo, and Mike showed up well. The victory for New Castle was the seventh of the season. On next Saturday afternoon South, another Youngstown school will travel here with its eleven to meet the local griders.

Titans Prepare For Thiel Game

Lutherans Of Thiel To Invade New Wilmington In Final Home Game

(Special To The News)

NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—Coach "Dike" Beede's Westminster College football team starts today to prepare for the last home game of the season, when the Lutherans of Thiel College invade New Wilmington next Saturday.

Thiel and Westminster, both with good defensive teams, have broken even in recent years on the grid, and Saturday's game should be no exception. Last year Thiel won at Greenville by a 6-0 score. Two years ago Westminster won at New Wilmington by a 7-0 score.

Westminster has but one game following this Saturday's contest with the Lutherans. Bethany will be met at Bethany, W. Va., in the last game of the season on November 22. The Bethany contest, the ninth on the schedule this year, will be the last game for Captain Russell Boone, Turtle Creek, star center for four years, and Emmett Tweedy, Turtle Creek, star end for four seasons.

GRID CAPTAINS

Captain Harry Thayer, Tennessee's field leader, is a star guard and one of the outstanding men in the Southern conference. It has been Thayer's bad luck that Tennessee, under his captaincy, has lost its first game in four years.

Few Upsets In Saturday Games

Pitt And Tech Fight Out Great Games At Pittsburgh

BETHANY PROVES DAY'S SURPRISE

One more week's football history was written on Saturday afternoon, with few startling developments to mar what was expected of most of the teams. True there were a number of upsets, but for most of the teams it was the breather Saturday to rest up injuries from former games, in preparation for the Turkey day tussle.

There were a few upsets. Several teams playing over their heads defeated rivals that should have won, but the pay off this season is on the total score, and not what the first down record reads. And in many cases, particularly with Lehigh the day will go down in the school records as the day they defeated the big rival of the year.

Penn Goes Under

Marty Brill, formerly of the University of Pennsylvania, but now of Notre Dame, accompanied by his team mates made the boys of the City of Brotherly Love look mighty bad Saturday. Perhaps it was a case of working out Brill's spleen against his former club, but what ever it was the Irishers romped up and down Franklin Field for a 60-20 win. Not that Pennsylvania ever had a chance to win, but they were expected to hold the score down to an ordinary size.

In Pittsburgh, Pitt and Tech fought it out for the city championship, which this year rates as just a city championship. Beyond the bow limits of McKees Rocks it means but little. Pitt won by a 7-6 score, but Tech made 16 first downs to Pitt's six.

Westminster continued to prove the claims of its friends by holding Geneva scoreless for three quarters and then allowing a pass to get away for Geneva's lone touchdown. The kick was good. Earlier Thiel has slumped or Bethany has taken a new lease on life for the Lutherans had plenty of trouble defeating Bethany 7-6. After all a 7-6 win is hardly decisive.

Poor Old Waynesburg

Waynesburg can mark this season down as the worst in many years. Grove City piled up 33 points to Waynesburg's 8, which proves that mud cleats are of little use on a ball room floor.

The Michigan-Harvard tilt was the classic of the day. Harvard was expected to win by the lads who thought they knew, but it's a fine idea never to bet against Michigan. The Wolverines won 6-3 in a battle that will be remembered in the Back Bay district.

Yale had a fairly brisk workout for the second and third team against Alfred winning 66-0. Lehigh rose to the heights, although in this case it doesn't take a 100 foot ladder to scale the heights, by defeating Princeton 13-9. In eastern colleges they still retain some respect for the Big Three, although this year Princeton has been in dire straits. Lehigh has been little better, but their season is now a success.

Allegheny essayed to stop the Big Green team from Dartmouth and did score 14 points against the reserves. The final score was 41-14, which gives Dartmouth another hitch on the high scoring record, but their chances for national honors were ruined by Yale.

The big mid-western teams came through in expected style. Wisconsin defeated South Dakota State 58-7, Purdue defeated Chicago 26-7, Northwestern defeated Indiana 25-0, and Minnesota defeated South Dakota 59-0. Up to the present time Northwestern looks to be a national contender, but they still have Notre Dame to meet. The same goes for Southern California.

Army whopped Illinois 13-0, hardly unexpected, but Ohio State, did show some real class in defeating the Navy 27-0. Marquette, the undefeated team from Milwaukee took over Iowa by a 7-0 score in a game that was a thriller.

Penn State proved a surprise package for Syracuse holding them to a 0-0 score. West Virginia also surprised Bo McMillan's Kansas A's 23-7, while Colgate picked a poor old Columbia 54-0. Georgia came north again to demonstrate that they have a real team this year defeating New York University 7-6. This might appear to give Georgia some consideration for national honors but this is discredited when it is remembered that New York lost to Portland. Georgia also defeated Yale earlier in the season.

Geneva Wins Classic From Titans By 7-0 Score Saturday Afternoon

Long Pass Wins For Covenantors After Three Scoreless Periods

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—One of the most exciting games in the history of the classic was played here Saturday afternoon before a crowd of 3,000 fans.

With the ball on the Westminster 24-yard line in the fourth quarter, Captain Knapic, scintillating half-back of the Covenantors, took the ball from center, raced back 10 yards, waited a fraction of a second, and then tossed the ball 35 yards to Seaburn, end, at the goal line. Seaburn reached into the air, clasped the ball tightly against his gold jersey, took two steps, and the score of the day was made.

Shaffer, Westminster quarterback who had twice intercepted Geneva passes and who had knocked down two Covenantor tosses, tried in vain to tip the pass which Seaburn caught, but missed the oval by inches as it sailed through the air as straight and true as a Tartar's arrow.

And so Westminster failed to hold Geneva to a deserved scoreless tie in one of the best exhibitions of football seen on the Titan gridiron in many a day.

Lines Battle Valiantly
But the glory for the valiant play of both teams should not be given to Knapic, great as he is, nor to any of the backs. What thrilled the crowd was the superb line play on the part of both teams. For Westminster, the line stood out as a stone wall against the battering ram and hurling machine of an ancient and foreign army.

The fighting line in blue and white three times held within inches of their goal line, and were responsible for confining most of the play between the two 40-yard lines for the greater part of the contest. But the Geneva line was also inspired, fighting for every inch and keeping the Titans attack back when scoring seemed possible.

Geneva's vaunted forward passing attack came in for something of a setback, as only three tosses were completed, two for no gain and one for a gain of 35 yards; but the fact that the score which won the contest came from the only forward which gained was satisfying enough to Coach Harper and his crew.

Try Many Passes
The Covenantors tried 11 passes and completed three for a gain of 35 yards, while Westminster completed six out of 11 passes for a gain of 67 yards. The alert Shaffer spoiled four Geneva tosses, intercepting two and grounding two. One Titan pass was intercepted, that by Timario.

The first period showed the Covenantors chalking up six first downs as Knapic, Ewing, Grahame, and Hench carried the ball to the Titan goal line. As the second period started, Geneva had a second down with three feet to go for a touchdown. The Titan line braced and held six inches from the line. Knapic fumbled a pass from center and lost six yards. Knapic ran back 15 yards and passed laterally to Aultman who failed to gain, and the ball went to Westminster. Unable to gain, Michaels punted.

In the second quarter, Westminster opened up with a passing attack which netted two first downs, but the ball was punted after the Titans had reached the Geneva 30-yard line and could not gain. Most of the play in this period was at midfield with neither team doing much offensively.

The third quarter saw a Westminster drive which looked like a certain score. Tweedy, Titan right end, took the ball for 15 yards on the end-around play. Shaffer passed to Tweedy for 16 yards. On the next play, Shaffer passed to Tweedy again for a 37-yard gain, and the Titan end slipped and fell just as he caught the ball on the Geneva 24-yard line with the field clear ahead of him to the goal.

From here the Titans carried the ball eight yards more toward the Covenantor goal line, but lost the ball on downs just when a score seemed certain. At this point in the game a break favored Geneva. Knapic punted high from the goal line and Harper, Titan half, signaled for a fair catch, then misjudged the ball, and fumbled it, Geneva recovering near midfield.

At the start of the fourth quarter, with the score still 0-0 and with neither team holding the advantage, Geneva took the ball. Titan territory after a short kick by Michaels. Knapic, on the second play, tossed a pass 35 yards, which Seaburn caught as he stepped over the double line. Grahame's placement for extra point was good.

Only two fumbles, one by either team, were noted during the game. Westminster, with 73 yards lost as the result of penalties, lost opportunities to score and gave Geneva advantages at crucial points in the game. Geneva was penalized 35 yards from scrimmage.

Geneva made 10 first downs to eight by Westminster, which figures give some indication of the balanced fight which took place. Geneva was on the offensive more than Westminster, however, and had to resort to punting on only three occasions.

For Geneva, Aultman, end who backed up the line; Captain Knapic, superb ball carrier, passer, and kicker; Ewing, defensive ace; Grahame, star quarterback; and McKee, excellent tackle stood out. For Westminster, Captain Boone, star center; Uram, guard; Shaffer, quarterback; Kozicki, tackle; and Tweedy, end, were best.

Westminster Harriers Defeat Allegheny Saturday By 24-31

Smalley, Titan Ace, Crosses Finish Line First In Race

(Special To The News)
NEW WILMINGTON, Pa., Nov. 10.—Westminster defeated Allegheny in cross country here Saturday by a 24-31 score. James Smalley, Westminster ace from Elizabeth, Pa., finished first, negotiating the 5.34 mile Fayette course in 30 minutes, 45 seconds.

One minute and a half after Smalley came Worrall, New Wilmington boy who attends Allegheny. Tom Coles, Westminster freshman, was third. Ish Allegheny was fourth, and Stocker, Westminster, was fifth.

Winning this meet which ended the season for the Titans was particularly gratifying since the Methodists have not been defeated in cross country in the last four years.

The order of finish: Smalley (W), Worrall (A), Coles (W), Ish (A), Stocker (W), Rockey (A), Wallace (W), Burton (W), Beller (A), Kennedy (W).

the season which is interesting, but hardly important.

Tuss McLaughry's Brown outfit took over Tufts 32-7, even with the Browns being filled for dear old Maine. Amherst and Trinity tied 7-7. Bucknell defeated the strong Villanova team 20-14, and Slippery Rock defeated Edinboro 7-0.

Fordham nearly ran into trouble with Gus Dorais University of Detroit team but managed to nose out a 13-7 victory. Nebraska defeated Kansas 16-0.

Some days ago we received a rather pointed letter from Tusculum, Alabama in which the wings complained of our remarks concerning Southern football. If memory serves us right the statement was that "Southern football wasn't what it used to be" this season, and in spite of the remarks from Tusculum it still stands.

Alabama Still Undeclared
Alabama it is true is still undeclared, taking over Florida Saturday 20-0, but it has still to be shown where Alabama has any right to lay claim to any national honors.

There is no sectional prejudice in this either, for we still recall that splendid Alabama team that showed the coast folks some real football in the Tournament of Roses game. But this season, hardly.

As for Kentucky, to which our critic pointed with considerable pride, Duke University took them by a 14-7 score, and nobody has yet appeared to sing any praise for Duke this year, good as it is. Shipwreck Kelly was shipwrecked in this game, being stopped in his tracks in the first quarter. Former injuries are claimed as the reason for his showing, but it is Grantland Rice's idea that a good football player doesn't get hurt.

Vanderbilt defeated Georgia Tech 6-0. Vanderbilt is another team our friend pointed to with pride, but you'll recall that Carnegie Tech made monkeys of Georgia Tech, and well draw the veil on what Notre Dame did to Carnegie. Draw your own conclusions from the comparison. As for the Southern championship, Alabama will probably win it more to them, and our only regret is that Alabama is scheduled with Notre Dame, Northwestern, Michigan, Dartmouth or even Pitt. Perhaps we could then get a comparison of North and South football.

Out on the Pacific coast, Washington State kept its stride by defeating Idaho 33-7, and the University of Southern California won places in California, smearing them 74-0. Stanford defeated Washington 25-7, and Oregon nosed out a 7-0 win over U. C. L. A. O.

As for the W. P. I. A. L. game here in Western Pennsylvania, the latest dope coming from Pittsburgh is that Redstone Township, wherever that is, looks like the W. P. I. A. L. champions. Isn't that just too sweet for words? It seems that Redstone has complied with the rules and played the required number of Class A games, but a survey of the list fails to show any conclusive evidence that the team could do much with Washington or New Castle. However, figures don't lie and if Redstone has the figures when the scores are tallied, by all means give them the cup.
